BOSTON MEN CONFER ON NATIONAL BOARD OF TRADE EXTENSION

Chamber of Commerce Discusses Methods by Which Its Usefulness May Be Increased.

SEEKS LEGISLATION

To Urge on Congress Passage of Forest Reserve, Tariff Board and Court of Patent Appeals Laws.

Preparations for carrying out plans for strengthening the National Board of Trade were discussed today by the Boston Chamber of Commerce as the result of a conference of F. D. La Lanne, president of the board, with representatives of the chamber at the Boston City Club yesterday.

Mr. La Lanne, it is said, may also visit the trade bodies in Chicago, Cleveland and New York. The National Board of Trade represents the commercial organizations of the entire country, and Mr. La Lanne desires to see it become more effective, and the Boston Chamber of Commerce is cooperating with him in drawing up amendments to the by-laws to be voted on by the members of the board at the convention in January.

Delegates who will attend from the chamber are: John C. Cobb, John H. Fahey, E. A. Filene, Frederick P. Fish, Charles S. Hamlin, John S. Lawrence, Walter H. Lowmyer, James A. McKibben, Daniel D. Morse, Elwyn G. Preston, George S. Smith, Frederic H. Vieux, Clinton White and John G. Wright. Two others remain to be appointed.

Several other subjects of national importance will be proposed for consideration at the convention by the Boston chamber, which is the largest commercial organization in any city in the United States. One of these is the Weeks forest reserve bill. For years the commercial interests of New England have been trying to save the forests of the White mountains from destruction by fire and lumber cutting.

Congressman Weeks' bill passed the Senate of the last Congress, but was not reached in the House. Introduced in this Congress it passed the House and a contest was made in the Senate with the result that Feb. 15, 1911, was set as a date on which a vote should be taken in the upper branch. If that vote is against the bill the contest will begin again.

By "parliamentary tactics" those opposing the measure are likely to stave off action until March 4, when Congress expires by limitation. The chamber will not relax its efforts to pass the bill as it stands, and will ask the National Board of Trade to endorse it as important to the whole country.

The tariff board will also be proposed by Boston as a subject for consideration. The chamber believes that a permanent non-partisan tariff commission should be established by the United States so that the tariff shall be taken out of politics and handled on a business basis, with the aid of experts.

A third subject is to establish a United States court of patent appeals. The conflict of patent decisions and the clogging of the calendar of the United States supreme court by appeals from these decisions is said to be detrimental to business interests.

A committee of the American Bar Association, of which Frederick P. Fish, second vice-president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, is a member, has recommended the establishment of such a court.

The bill prohibiting the government from printing on stamped envelopes purchased from it the name and address of the purchaser is another subject which the chamber is to bring before the national board.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE TELLS CONDITION OF BOSTON SHOPS

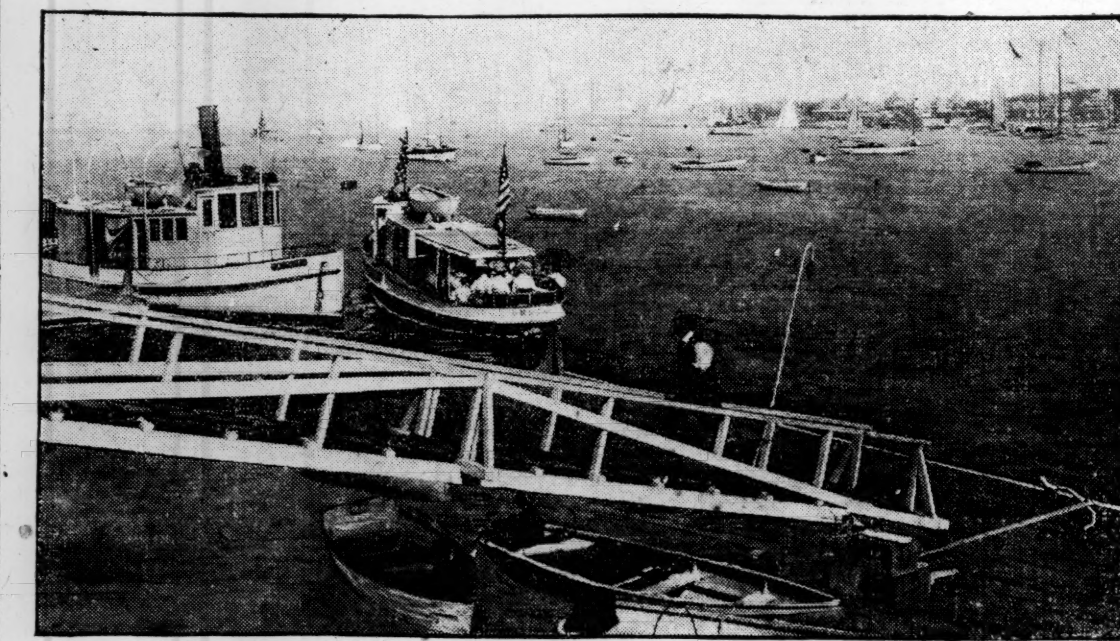

A report on market conditions in Boston is being circulated today by the Women's Municipal League, whose committee has made an investigation. The report says in part:

"In many cases there was a sad necessity of creating standards, not merely raising them.

"Among the Boston shops 207 have been under careful and constant inspection. 55 of these might have been called 'good' to begin with; 47 were actually very dirty, and 105 mediocre. Of the 47 dirty shops 32 have become noticeably cleaner during the course of inspection. Of the 105 mediocre shops 67 have improved.

"Twenty-six dealers exposed candy on the street, 11 exposed fish, four exposed cut meat, six exposed cut fruit and melons. These figures show that much work supported by public opinion is necessary. They also show that improvement is possible although it must come about slowly."

UNIONIST GAIN THREE ONLY, WITH 451 OF 670 SEATS DECIDED

LONDON—With 451 of the 670 seats in the House of Commons already decided, the Conservatives have made a net gain of only three, indicating that their total net gain will probably not be more than five as against the 25 that they claimed before the polling began.

The latest statement of the standing shows: Conservatives 206, Liberals 156, Irish Nationalists 54, Laborites 29, Independent Nationalists (O'Brienites) 6. This gives the coalition, counting in the O'Brienites, 245.

Joseph Devlin who went to America with Redmond and O'Connor has been successful in Belfast city, west, the results being Devlin, Nationalist, 4543; Sir John Smiley, Unionist, 4080.

In the last election to Parliament but one Mr. Devlin had 4138 votes to 4122 for Capt. J. R. Smiley, Conservative, and 153 for A. M. Carlisle, Liberal. His majority last January was 587.

The results are unprecedented in English history. Both parties went into the

RECOUNT SOUGHT BY OPPONENT OF COLONEL AMES

Relection of Congressman Butler Ames of Lowell by a plurality vote of 497 is to be contested by James H. Carmichael, his Democratic opponent, who has filed with the city and town clerks of Lowell, Lawrence, Tyngsboro and Dunstable petitions asking that the ballots cast at the election in these places be saved pending a recount.

The failure of the Democratic city committee of Fall River to include in its statement of campaign expenses filed with the secretary of state certain sums which were turned over by the Democratic state committee was explained today by Chairman P. F. Driscoll of the city committee. Several items had been left off the filed statement through an oversight and the absence of others was accounted for by the fact that they had been expended directly through the state committee.

Governor-elect Foss, who has been at home for several days, said today that he expects to go to his office this afternoon to resume his business and political work.

Recount of the majority vote in three wards of Waltham shows a gain of one vote for Mayor Edward A. Walker, giving him a plurality of 15 votes over Patrick J. Duane, his Democratic opponent. The returns on election day gave Mayor Walker the election by 14 votes. Recounts in the other wards will be made tonight. At the same time the vote for aldermen in ward 1 will be recounted as there was a tie vote for Charles A. Masters and Josiah S. Hays, according to the first returns.

SIXTY FIRST VETO FOR SOMERVILLE

Mayor Woods returned without his approval the license granted by the board of aldermen at its last meeting to Thomas H. Kingston and Freeman B. Horsman to erect and use a public garage on Day street, West Somerville.

This was Mayor Woods' sixty-first veto since he has been in office. He said that a garage was objectionable to all residents of Day street.

COMMISSIONER RULE IN OAKLAND. OAKLAND, Cal.—The city of Oakland yesterday adopted the commission form of government yesterday by a vote of 9023 to 3018.

NO MORE MONEY IS ADVANCED TO U. S. CONTRACTORS

Firms having contracts with the federal government are to receive no advance money on materials purchased and money is to be paid only on delivery of the finished product.

This is the new ruling of R. J. Tracewell, comptroller of the treasury, and comes as a result of a contract made with Albert J. M. Anderson of Boston who are now building 46 six-inch howitzer emplacements, for which the government agreed to pay $144,241.

Contracts with concerns read that part payments will be made but this is nullified by the ruling.

LEAVE ON LIMON FOR THE TROPICS

Several tourists sailed on the United Fruit Company's steamer Limon today for Port Limon, Costa Rica, including George E. Evans, Mrs. J. E. Robertson, George Lester, Miss Mary M. Combs and Franklin Black of Boston.

William Newsome of Brookline, the manager of the West India division of the fruit company, has left New York on a visit to the company's holdings in the West Indies and Central America.

CANADIAN AND U. S. I. O. O. F. MAY UNITE

The proposition to unite the Canadian Odd Fellow districts with those of this country comes up tomorrow when the official board of the United States grand lodge meets in Boston.

Should this union plan go through the United States Grand Lodge will have general charge of the entire organization in North America.

NEW BEDFORD MILL WRECKED. NEW BEDFORD, Mass. When the boiler in the planing mill of the A. S. Allen Company blew up shortly before noon today seven men were injured. The building was wrecked.

CONVENTION OF GAS MEN A BIG SUCCESS, SAY THE MANAGERS

"Successful in every way," is the characterization of those in charge of the sixth annual convention of the National Commercial Gas Association, which closed this morning in the Mechanics building.

The sessions have been the most largely attended in the history of the association, and the exhibition of gas appliances is termed second to none in importance, and easily the first from the standpoint of artistic setting and arrangement.

Nearly 6000 persons visited the exhibition Thursday. The membership of the association has passed the 2000 mark, an unprecedented increase.

The exhibition halls, with gold and white decorations, and innumerable devices for the use of gas will continue open through Tuesday, Dec. 13.

"Many of the leading gas men admit that the great future expansion in the fuel gas industry must come through the medium of gas water heaters," declared C. Frampton, president of the Pittsburgh Water Heater Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., in a paper on the subject read at the morning session of the convention.

H. L. Schutt, representative of the William E. Crane Company of New York city, read a paper on "A Traveling Man's Views of the Commercial Department."

There were about 150 members in an automobile party that visited historical places in Boston, Brookline, Cambridge and Charlestown Thursday afternoon. Thirty-four machines were used, each holding from four to six persons.

PUBLIC RECREATION SECOND-DAY TOPIC AT PLAYGROUND MEETING

HOLYOKE, Mass.—Howard Bradstreet, director of park playgrounds in New York, made the opening address today at the second session of the New England playground institute in this city. His subject was "A City Plan for Playgrounds and Public Recreation."

The institute, the purpose of which is to facilitate an exchange of ideas on the problems of playground administration, opened Thursday night in high school hall. Joseph Lee of Boston, president of the Playground Association of America, spoke on "What the Child Needs," and a paper by John J. Cronin of the division of child hygiene of New York was read.

Leo F. Hammer of New York city called the meeting to order and outlined the scope of the institute. At the close of his remarks Mr. Hammer introduced W. J. Howes, chairman of the Holyoke playground commission, as the chairman of the evening. Mr. Howes spoke briefly and introduced as the first speaker Mayor N. P. Avery, who extended the welcome of the city to the delegates and

The land required for the project is owned by the town of Marblehead, being a portion of the public park domain. It will be necessary to have a special act of the Legislature before the property can be acquired. Also, before the work can be commenced on the harbor development it will be necessary to get the permission of the harbor and land commissioners.

The Marblehead park commissioners are to meet this evening to consider the proposition. All the work is to be done with no expense to the town. The land to be made will extend three quarters of a mile along the harbor line and it is intended to build a boulevard along that line.

Choice of Supreme Court Eligibles Is Narrowed to Nine by the President

SENATOR GEORGE SUTHERLAND. Named as one of those selected as final candidate for highest tribunal.

WASHINGTON—President Taft forwarded recently a list of names of men favored by him as final candidates for the supreme court bench to many senators, asking for proposals or advice.

This afternoon the President added the name of W. D. McHugh of Omaha, Neb., to the list of eight possible appointees. The announcement of the two selections will be made next week. The following are the other members of the list:

Justice Swayze, supreme court of New Jersey; Judge Lamar, former chief justice of supreme court of Georgia; U. S. District Judge Gordon Russell, Texas; Circuit Judge William C. Hook, eighth United States circuit; Circuit Judge Willis van Deventer, eighth United States circuit; District Judge John C. Pollock, eighth United States circuit; Chief Justice Winslow, supreme court of Wisconsin; Senator George Sutherland, Utah.

The names have been picked from a list of 400 candidates. It is said to be increasingly probable that Associate Justice Hughes will be made chief justice. In that case the President will be likely to appoint two of the men mentioned as associate justices.

BIG PARK AND HOTEL MARBLEHEAD PLAN FOR INNER HARBOR

Summer Colony Is Promoting Project to Build Sea Wall and Fill in the Space Behind It With Made Land.

TO COST $1,000,000

Seek to Provide Accommodations for the Crowds Which Attend Yacht Races and Other Summer Events.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass.—Members of the summer colony at Marblehead contemplate the construction of a sea wall across the inner Marblehead harbor from Seaside park to a point at the end of the Marblehead Neck causeway.

Dredging the harbor and filling in the section back of the wall for a public park and the erection there of the largest hotel along the North Shore are parts of the plans of the promoters which will involve an expense of $1,000,000.

The hotel will be built at a cost of $500,000 to accommodate summer visitors, the crowded conditions being particularly felt at the time of the big yacht races. The Corinthian and Eastern Yacht clubs are unable to take care of those who attend the races.

This new land will add another public park to the town, which already has Crocker and Seaside parks. The sea wall running along the low water mark of the inner harbor will also provide an excellent promenade. The shorter route afforded by this esplanade will take the place of the ferry lines to the Neck.

The project is a private one and was roughly outlined for public information yesterday. Gardner Hathaway is interested in it.

The land required for the project is owned by the town of Marblehead, being a portion of the public park domain. It will be necessary to have a special act of the Legislature before the property can be acquired. Also, before the work can be commenced on the harbor development it will be necessary to get the permission of the harbor and land commissioners.

The Marblehead park commissioners are to meet this evening to consider the proposition. All the work is to be done with no expense to the town. The land to be made will extend three quarters of a mile along the harbor line and it is intended to build a boulevard along that line.

OPPOSES ARREST IN MEXICAN CASES

WASHINGTON—Arrest here of Juan Sanchez Azcona, Mexican revolutionist, will be made the basis of an open fight in Congress to put an end to the system by which Uncle Sam is forced to act as a policeman for President Diaz of Mexico. A change in the present treaty will be demanded, according to the announced determination today of Representative Wilson of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Wilson held a conference with Thomas S. Hopkins, attorney for Azcona, today and planned his course of action. "If the charge against Azcona of obtaining money under false pretenses, proves baseless as we believe it to be," said Mr. Wilson today, "I will present Azcona personally as the example of the evil system which permits the Mexican government under the name of justice to force the United States to incarcerate political refugees."

COUNT KOMURA TO QUIT CABINET

TOKIO—The resignation of Count Komura, minister of foreign affairs, is regarded as an event of the not far distant future.

Differences of opinion, it is said, exist between Marquis Katsura and his minister of foreign affairs. The new tariff law, enacted this year, goes into effect next July, and the negotiations for conventions form the ground-work for those differences.

Ambassador Kato, in London, it is reported, has not been in full sympathy with his government, or rather has advocated more liberal dealing with Great Britain as an ally.

A canvass of the situation in the search for Count Komura's successor would probably result in the nomination of Mr. Kato himself, and his recall from London.

RESIGNATIONS NOT TO AFFECT SCOUTS

George H. Gordon, Boston secretary of the American Boy Scouts, in speaking today of the resignation of William Randolph Hearst, Jefferson M. Levy and Admiral George Dewey from the organization, said that the withdrawal of these men would have no effect upon the society. The body may affiliate with some other organization of the same nature.

ALTITUDE RECORD OF 10,400 FEET IS MADE IN FRANCE

M. Legagneux, at Pau, France, Rises Nearly Two Miles, but Awaits Official Verification of Barograph.

PAU, France.—In a Bleriot monoplane today, M. Legagneux rose to an unofficial height of 10,400 feet, or nearly two miles, breaking the altitude record established by J. Armstrong Drexel in Philadelphia. The barograph readings have not yet been verified.

DOVER, Eng.—Aviators are arriving here today to compete in the farthest flight by an Englishman, in an English built machine, across the channel into France, for the $20,000 prize offered by Baron de Forest.

There are 41 entrants, many of them novices. Grahame-White will be one of the contestants. A start will be made today if the wind subsides sufficiently.

Only four flyers have ever crossed the channel. Louis Bleriot, Count Jacques de Lesseps, Charles S. Rolls and John B. Moisant, the American who flew across with a passenger in his aerial trip from Paris to London.

SHERRY BUILDING IN LYNN BURNED WITH $75,000 LOSS

LYNN, Mass.—The Sherry building, Monroe street, was destroyed by fire early today. The damage is estimated at $75,000.

There was discovered at 3 o'clock this morning by Policeman John M. Donohue, and two alarms were immediately sounded. The fire started on the second floor and after apparently being extinguished broke out again on the top floor. It spread to other parts of the building and the structure was soon a mass of flames. Only the four brick walls are now standing. The cause is unknown.

The building was one of the first brick structures erected in Lynn for the manufacture of shoes, and was assessed for $22,000. Mr. Sherry, the owner, is one of Lynn's pioneer shoe manufacturers. The concerns occupying the building with estimated losses were: Nathan Sharfman, $2000; F. J. Toban & Co., $3000; Carlson Brothers, $4000; Jacob & Burrows Company, $3000; Edward Hefferman, $5000; The Little Skipper Shoe Company, $5000; Beaudry Machine Company, $2000; Beaumont & Craib, $1500; Eastern Brass Works, $3000; William Jernerson, $15,000; T. H. Coffin & Sons, $2500; McDowell & Sons, $1800; Shirley Shoe Company, $18,000.

The following firms were slightly damaged by water: J. F. Morgan & Sons, F. W. Feinstein & Co., N. A. Dane & Co. and D. W. Baxter.

EXECUTIVE OFFICERS OF NEW HAVEN ROAD GATHER IN NEW YORK

Executive officers of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad are holding their regular monthly meeting today in New York, preparatory to the meeting of the full board of directors Saturday.

It is expected that the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent will be declared by the directors, making a disbursement of over $2,000,000. The new station proposed to be built at New Haven may be taken up and authority given to start the work, it is said.

The New Haven road announced Thursday at New Haven that passenger rates on that road would be changed Dec. 16, principally a reduction between New Haven and points in Massachusetts on the Northampton division.

The rate from New Haven to Shelburne Falls will be cut from $2.50 to $2.25; to Southampton cut 10 cents; from Southampton to Shelburne Falls and between 10 to 25 cents reduction; on the Turners' Falls branch from New Haven to Deerfield and also to Turners Falls a reduction of 30 cents each.

Tickets from New Haven to points on the Boston & Albany and the Boston & Maine, however, will cost more after Dec. 16.

DINNER AT TECHNOLOGY UNION.

An annual fall dinner will start the season's activities of the Technology Christian Association, formerly a branch of the Y. M. C. A., tonight in the Technology Union. President William W. Warner '11 of Titusville, Pa., will be toastmaster and Charles R. Towson of New York, Dean Alfred E. Burton, D. M. Claghorn and Dr. G. W. Tupper will speak.

EXAMINATION FOR WEST POINT.

Congressman Peters announced today a competitive examination for West Point Military Academy to be held at the civil service rooms in the federal building Dec. 13-16 at 9 a. m. One principal and two alternatives will be chosen.

SHIFT OF 486 VOTES WOULD HAVE GIVEN DEMOCRATS RULE

Minority in Legislature Falls Only 15 Short on Joint Ballot and Several Members Won by Small Margin.

POSSIBLE CHANGES

Fourteenth Congressional District Has Some Close Sections Needing but Slight Reversals.

Data now in the possession of the secretary of state shows that a change of 486 votes from Republican to Democratic, spread through certain districts at the state election, would have given the Democrats control of the House of Representatives and a majority on a joint ballot of both houses for the election of a United States senator.

Only 15 additional legislators at the State House are needed by the Democrats to control. Had there been a change of six votes in the fourth Worcester senatorial district and 43 in the Worcester-Hampden, the Democratic strength in the Senate would have been increased by two members; and small changes in the first Barnstable, second Bristol, fourth Norfolk, second, fourth, seventh, eighth and ninth Plymouth and seven, eighth, tenth, twenty-first and twenty-sixth Essex representative districts would have given the Democrats 13 more representatives, enough, with the additional senators, to make a Democratic majority on a joint ballot of the Legislature.

Another interesting disclosure on examining the data is that by a change of 189 votes from Republican to Democratic the Democrats could have gained control of the House. Only nine additional representatives are needed to give the Democrats a majority in the lower branch.

Nine close districts of the state where a small change in the vote would have elected the Democratic candidate and the number of changes in each case follow: First Barnstable, 34; second Bristol, 27; second Plymouth, 2; fourth Plymouth, 5; ninth Plymouth, 53; eighteenth Essex, 3; twenty-first Essex, 8; thirtieth Middlesex, 10; sixth Norfolk, 47.

Most of the districts where a slight change would have brought success to the Democratic candidate appear to have been in the fourteenth congressional district, where a shift of 34 votes would have elected a Democratic candidate for Congress. There are seven representative districts in this congressional area where a change from two to 57 votes from Republican to Democratic would have elected a Democrat to the Legislature.

The Democrats need seven more state senators to give them a majority in the Senate. There were some very close districts and a change of only 1395 votes scattered just right through the second Bristol, first and seventh Middlesex, first Norfolk, second and fourth Worcester and Worcester-Hampden districts would have made a Democratic majority in the Senate.

Although the Republicans elected 10 representatives to Congress to four for the Democrats, a change in the complexion of 665 votes would have elected three more Democratic congressmen and divided the Massachusetts representation in the national House equally between the Republicans and Democrats.

A letter was sent to Governor-elect Foss today by Daniel W. McCarthy of Lawrence, a supporter of Senator Lodge, asking that the writer be allowed to occupy the platform with the Foss anti-Lodge party when it visits Lawrence and defend the senior senator.

Col. Winthrop H. Merrill has written to Governor-elect Foss asking that he be not considered a candidate for appointment by Mr. Foss to the position of adjutant-general.

CITY STATISTICS EXPENSE $8719.18

Report of the statistics department of the city government for the year ending Jan. 13, 1910, briefly reviews the various publications of the department.

The statement of expenditures for 1909-10 shows that the appropriation was $11,200, that there was unexpended $2480, leaving a total balance at the time the report closed of $8719.18. Its expenditures for the year were a like sum.

ARREST IN LAND FRAUD CASE.

WASHINGTON—Donald A. McKenzie, who was indicted by a federal grand jury at Spokane, together with his cousin, Charles A. McKenzie of Seattle, and four other men on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government of more than 20,000 acres of Alaskan coal lands, was arrested here last night. He was admitted to bail.

NEW JERSEY GAINS BY CENSUS.

WASHINGTON—The census bureau today announced the figures for New Jersey, 2,577,107, increase 653,498 or 34.7 per cent. New Jersey gains three new congressmen.

HOUSE BILLS PROVIDE FOR DUTY-FREE FOOD AND SAWED LUMBER

WASHINGTON—Two attacks on the Payne-Aldrich tariff law were among the bills introduced in the House Thursday. Free lumber and free foodstuffs were the points upon which the attacks were based.

A bill repealing the Payne-Aldrich lumber schedule was introduced by Representative Smith (Dem.) of Texas. It specifically places all sawed lumber on the free list.

Representative Clark (Dem.) of Florida introduced the bill repealing the duty on foodstuffs and providing that "every article used by human beings for food" be placed on the free list.

Practically the entire day was occupied in the House with consideration of the Indian appropriation bill.

Reapportionment of the House, one of the measures to be considered at this session, will be brought up on Monday, when a meeting of the committee on the census will be held.

Representative Crumpacker of Indiana, chairman of the census committee, has called on Director Durand of the census bureau for a report on the population, with tables showing the congressional representation by states based on various units of representation. These figures will be considered by the committee Monday.

Mr. Crumpacker favors taking the subject up at once, while Representative Dwight of New York, the Republican whip, backed up by the members of the New York delegation, is opposing him. The only way out of the predicament, according to Mr. Dwight, is not to have any reapportionment at all, but simply to increase the ratio of representation so as to keep the membership of the House at its present number.

Mr. Crumpacker favors fixing a ratio that would slightly increase the present membership, but does not want to see it exceed 400. The present membership is 391.

Representative Gillett of Massachusetts says that the appropriation committee, of which he is a member, has nearly completed its work on the legislative bill and the measure will, in all probability, be taken up by the House immediately after the disposal of the rivers and harbors bill.

As a result of an hour and a half of time devoted to the calendar, the Senate passed one small bill today and then adjourned until next Monday.

Senator Cummins of Iowa next Monday will introduce his resolution for the amendment of the Senate rules in the interest of legislation looking to the amendment of the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

WOOL MEN MEET AT ANNUAL DINNER

NEW YORK—More than 300 members attended the fourth annual meeting and dinner of the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers Thursday night at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The principal speakers were Prof. Henry C. Emery, president of the national tariff board, who spoke on "The Work of the Tariff Board;" Charles Heber Clark of Philadelphia, who spoke on "The Protective Tariff;" and Joseph Smith of Lowell, Mass.

Officers elected were: President, Frederick S. Clark; vice-presidents, Louis B. Goodall and Thomas H. Wilson; secretary, Herbert E. Peabody; treasurer, Richard A. Strong; executive committee, Richard A. Strong, William H. Folwell, Robert T. Francis, F. W. Freeman, William J. Batey; actuary, John M. Clark.

TEACHERS TO GIVE SARDOU COMEDY

Members of the Boston Teachers Club will present "A Scrap of Paper," a comedy adapted from Sardou by F. George Simpson, in Jordan hall tonight and Saturday night at 8 p. m.

The principal parts will be taken by Louis A. White, Charles C. Mansfield, Herbert M. Woodward, Joseph F. O'Sullivan, Miss Margaret T. Dooley, Miss Isabel May Wier, Miss Ruth M. Haynes, Miss Marie Anthony Goddard. There will be a program of popular music of the better sort. The play is produced under the direction of Robert Hurley.

ENGLISH ELECTIONS WITHOUT PRECEDENT IN CLOSE CONTESTS

election predicting great gains. Both are now convinced that the new House of Commons will be practically identical with the old.

Discussion is now concentrated upon the question of what the people's verdict means—what course shall be followed in such unexpected circumstances.

The Conservatives argue that Premier Asquith made a bid for a sweeping endorsement from the country, that he has not obtained it, and that, therefore, he cannot be justified in fastening upon the nation such radical changes as Irish home rule and the disarming of the House of Lords.

The coalitionists insist that the voters by returning them to power endorse their policies and direct them to carry out their program in its entirety.

Forty-four seats were allotted for yesterday. Returns were received from 21 of these and from 44 which were balloted for on Wednesday. Of these 65 the Liberals gained Radnorshire and Bedford, while the Unionists gained Epskdale.

The contests were close nearly everywhere. The Unionists continue to cut down the Liberal majorities and to make numerical gains all along the line, but the gains are insufficient to turn out the Liberal members.

Glasgow, where the Liberals counted upon for an increased vote, went off some 2000. Winston Spencer Churchill, the home secretary, was returned by Dundee, but about 1500 votes shifted to the Unionist column, largely as a result of attacks upon Mr. Churchill's personality.

The Unionist candidate in South Belfast, where opposition to home rule is strongest, made a considerable gain over the Unionist majority in the last election, while the indications are that the O'Brien's are cutting down the strength of the Redmondites in most sections of Ireland.

Among those whose election was announced are Moreton Frewen, who comes to the House of Commons from Cork county to support William O'Brien; H. H. Spender-Clay, for the Tonbridge division of Kent; and Lord Widdowbury de Eresby, for the Herefordshire division of Lincolnshire. All these married Americans.

CORPS OF CADETS TO GIVE CONCERT

The second of the series of five promenade concerts to be given by the First Corps of Cadets will be held in the cadet armory, Dec. 15. There will be a concert from 8:30 to 9 p. m. and dancing until 12 midnight.

The committee in charge follows: Eugene H. Clapp, William J. Battilana, William Buffum, Edwin M. Brush, George H. Farwell, David B. Keniston, Benjamin S. Luther, Richard K. Conant, Benjamin Knapp, Elias Field.

TWO BELMONT CLUB COMEDIES

BELMONT, Mass.—Two comedies are to be given tonight by the Belmont Dramatic Club—"Votes for Women," by Miss Alice C. Underwood, a member of the club, and "The Private Secretary."

The cast of "Votes for Women": Mrs. Herriek, Margaret H. Wilson; Mr. Herriek, Herbert L. Sherman; Miss Smith, Adelle J. Loud; Nora, Carrie W. Fletcher.

J. H. REALL SURRENDERS.

Joseph H. Reall of 5 Court road, Brookline, gave himself up today to the federal authorities, who are holding him in connection with his alleged use of the United States mails in a scheme to defraud. The complaint was made by Post-office Inspector F. H. Birdseye of New York city. Mr. Reall was arraigned today before United States Commissioner Hayes and the matter of bail was deferred. The defendant will be sent to New York.

BUILDING GAIN IN ATLANTA.

ATLANTA, Ga.—The increase in the buildings in Atlanta for the first 11 months of the year over the same period last year was nearly $2,000,000—to be exact the figures show the increase to be $1,790,202.

PLAY AT EAST BRIDGEWATER.

EAST BRIDGEWATER, Mass.—"Samantha Allen at the Court of Fame" will be given in the town hall this evening under the auspices of the Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church.

READY TO SUPPLY EMPLOYERS HELP

Walter L. Sears, superintendent of the state free employment office at Boston, told the Charlestown conference of associated charities yesterday that the office was willing to assist reliable employers to get competent help promptly, but that the office was conducted along purely business lines.

If the public would centralize the demand for help at the state free employment office, as well as the supply of applicants seeking employment, a larger number of the unemployed could be benefited, he said.

CHAMP CLARK PICKED BY W. J. BRYAN TO LEAD CANNON FIGHT

LINCOLN, Neb., William J. Bryan in an editorial in the Commoner said today:

"The Democrats are being asked to accept Wall street leaders, not because of any Democratic principle advanced but because Wall street promises victory. In 1892 the Democratic party won a victory on the tariff issue, but as soon as the election was over the Wall street financiers demanded the unconditional repeal of the Sherman law and secured thereby a shameful use of patronage by the coercion that they knew so well how to practice. And what was the result? A Republican triumph more sweeping than any before since 1872 and more sweeping than any since, excepting 1894, when Wall street again promised victory. The defeats of 1896, 1900 and 1908 were not so disastrous as the defeats of 1894 and 1904. The party is more radical now than in either 1894 or 1904. What stupid folly to think of winning a victory by retreat and surrender to Wall street."

In urging Champ Clark to lead the fight in the next Congress for the annihilation of the Cannon rules, giving the speaker power to name committees, Mr. Bryan says:

"The whole scheme is repugnant to the Democratic sense of conscience. The speaker ought to be a presiding officer rather than a boss. He ought to be in a position to decide parliamentary propositions on their merits, not according to party exigencies. The committees ought to represent the wishes of the party, not the wishes of the man who may happen to be speaker."

Champ Clark is just the man to lead in the inauguration of this regime. He led in the overthrow of Cannonism in the first session of the present Congress, and the precedent established in the selection of the new committee on rules makes it easy to extend the principle to the appointment of all the committees. If the Democratic party will have the courage to inaugurate the reforms demanded by the people it can count on popular approval."

WAKEFIELD W. R. C. ELECTS OFFICERS

WAKEFIELD, Mass.—H. M. Warren Woman's Relief Corps at the annual business meeting Thursday night elected the following officers: President, Mrs. Alma Parker; senior vice-president, Mrs. E. Anderson; junior vice-president, Mrs. Myra Dunbar; treasurer, Mrs. Susan Crosby; chaplain, Mrs. Margaret Hamilton; conductor, Mrs. Mary McDuffie; guard, Mrs. Martha Reid; delegates to the department convention, Mrs. E. Anderson; Mrs. George M. Duffard, Mrs. Seth Crosby, Mrs. George M. McKley.

A joint public installation of these officers with those of the H. M. Warren post 12 G. A. R., will be held Jan. 2.

RADCLIFFE CLUB IN GERMAN MEETS

German Club of Radcliffe College holds its first open meeting this afternoon at Agassiz house. Kuno Francke, professor of the history of German culture at Harvard University, read selections from Laura Gill, of Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston, spoke before the freshmen of Radcliffe College this afternoon on "Choosing a Vocation."

Miss Laura Gill, of Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston, spoke before the freshmen of Radcliffe College this afternoon on "Choosing a Vocation."

TALKS ON "IMMIGRATION."

A general convocation at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology this afternoon in Huntington hall, Rogers building, is to be addressed by Charles R. Towson, in charge of the industrial and immigration work throughout the country on "Problem of the Immigrant."

POULTRY IN HOLIDAY SEASON WILL COST MORE, SAY DEALERS

Poultry is likely to be higher around the December holidays this year than in 1909, according to information gathered among the marketmen of Boston today.

The merchants profess to see a gradual advance, but expect, nevertheless, brisk trading. One noticeable change in holiday poultry purchases this year is the favor steadily gained by the goose, at the expense of the conventional turkey. Geese are now arriving.

At present geese are bringing from 25 to 28 cents a pound at Faneuil hall market; turkeys from 30 to 35 cents a pound, and chickens from 18 to 25 cents per pound, according to whether they are western birds or those raised hereabouts. The price of pork has risen three cents a pound, and wholesale dealers who bought pork for 10 cents a pound last week are now obliged to pay 13 cents, it is said, in the market today.

CHELSEA MASONS INSTALL OFFICERS

Royal Arch chapter of the Sheshinah held a capital installation ceremony at the Chelsea Masonic temple followed by dancing and a collation Thursday evening. Right Excellent Frank F. Cook, D. D. G. H., of the first district, conducted the installation, assisted by Walter B. Thayer, Jr., P. H. P., of Winthrop chapter. The following officers were installed:

Martin J. Fleischer, M. E. H. P.; Earl C. Farrington, E. K.; William A. Cardy, E. S.; Eleazer H. Brazer, P. H. P.; treasurer, Charles S. Beatty, secretary; Raymond T. Sewall, P. H. P.; C. of H.; Richard Burns, C.; Olin D. Page, P. S.; Otto Abrahamson, R. A. C.; Edwin E. Keith, M. third V.; Archibald Parsons, M. second V.; Charles Goudey, M. first V.; Elmer C. Haskell, S. S.; Arthur F. Douglass, J. S.; Weston D. Williams, organist, and William H. Nudd, Tyler.

Masonic masters of the sixth district of the grand lodge dined at Youngs hotel Thursday night in honor of their district deputy, Right Worshipful R. Walter Hilliard, who concluded two years in that office. Among the chief guests were: Most Worshipful Dana J. Flanders, G. M.; Right Eminent J. Albert Blake, G. C. of the grand commandery; T.; Robert W. Oliver, G. Std. B.; a New Brunswick grand lodge member, and Albert C. Ashton, marshal for the deputy.

PARENTS SUPPORT SCHOOL BANKING

CUMBERLAND, R. I.—The "school bank," through which the children were enabled to save their spending money and earn interest upon it, may not be given up although the school committee has so decided. Protests against breaking up the system have been made by the parents.

The superintendent of schools believes that he could better use in school work the time which he is obliged to give to the bank. The latter was established under the supervision of the school committee and the teachers. The children deposited their pennies, nickels and dimes, and were allowed to withdraw their savings at any time. A large amount was on deposit at the last accounting.

TESTS MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

Lieut. Thomas Goode of the Back Bay police station, who has been testing street musical instruments preparatory to issuing licenses, tested 15 piano-organs and other types at the store on Commercial street, hired for the purpose, Thursday. There are about 200 licenses in the city and Lieutenant Goode will have tested nearly half of this number of instruments when he hears today's consignment of about 15. Thus far only one has been refused a license at first hearing.

WORCESTER MAN FINED $1000.

Joseph Jacques, proprietor of a store in Worcester dealing in religious goods, was fined $1000 today by Judge Frederick Dodge in the United States district court on the charge of defrauding the United States government of duties on religious goods imported into this country.

NAVAL VETERANS AT DINNER.

Admiral Andrew Houghton of the Keary Naval Veterans presided last night at the twenty-third annual dinner.

GLOUCESTER COD PRICE IS RECORD

GLOUCESTER, Mass.—The highest prices ever paid for codfish at this port and declared to constitute a world's record price, was recorded Thursday when the catch of the schooner Hattie A. Hackman was disposed of at the rate of $5.50 per 100 pounds for large fish and $5 per 100 for medium size fish and "snappers."

The previous high record was made during the civil war. The schooner Juno has arrived with a catch of 60,000 pounds of such fish, which probably will obtain the same price today.

SECOND OF NATIONAL FLOWER SHOWS TO BE HELD IN BOSTON

Boston has been selected as the city to have the second national flower show ever held in America, March 25-April 1, 1911.

The first, held some years ago in Chicago, was on a much smaller scale than the one now contemplated. The Boston show will be held under the auspices and in connection with the convention of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists, and assisted by the American Rose, the American Carnation and American Gladiolus Societies and the cooperation of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

This, it is said today, will give a very adequate testimonial to the character of the coming exposition. Chester I. Campbell is the manager. The entire Mechanics building has been engaged, and the display will continue a week.

Over $10,000 will be offered as premiums, and all the prominent florists and growers of the country will compete, as well as the private gardeners of many large New England estates. In the trade exhibits greenhouse construction, pottery, fertilizer and garden supply firms have taken space.

A number of leading concerns are going to great expense in their exhibits, three in particular involving an outlay of nearly $5000 each. These will present a typical Holland or Dutch garden, an old English garden, and an Italian garden. From far-off Japan is to be imported the material for a Japanese garden, and in many countries gardeners and growers are forcing their yield, which in many instances will show varieties away out of the regular season for this occasion.

IRENE LE BLANC TESTIFIES.

Mrs. Irene Le Blanc Langley, sister of Hattie Le Blanc, who is on trial on the charge of shooting Clarence F. Glover of Waltham, resumed her testimony in the East Cambridge court today.

Lillian Le Blanc and Charles J. Sheppard, postmaster at Waltham, also testified. The latter said that Mrs. Glover had received letters in the name of Minnie Everett Clark. Two clerks in the post office, T. H. Kite and William Lawrence, testified that Mrs. Glover had received 500 letters in the name of Minnie Everett Clark in the past five years. Thomas Coffy, a salesman in a sporting goods store, could not identify Mrs. Glover as one to whom he sold a revolver. There was a long discussion between Attorney Johnson and District Attorney Higgins over whether a long statement made by Seymour Glover at the trial should be admitted or not and finally portions of the statement were admitted.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE SUSTAINED.

PHILADELPHIA—Charged with conspiracy to imprison unlawfully several precinct election officers identified with the reform movement, John J. Lynch, two sergeants and two Republican organization workers in the seventh ward were Thursday found guilty by a jury in criminal court.

MRS. PARK TO LECTURE.

Mrs. Charles Park will give a lecture on "Korean Women" at the rooms of the Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government at 4 p. m. today. Mrs. Stanley McCormick will preside. Miss Alice Stone Blackwell will give a resume of suffrage news during the past month. Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead will also speak.

JURORS PRESENT CAME TO JUDGE.

BROCKTON, Mass.—At the conclusion of the November sitting of the Plymouth county superior civil court session today the jurors presented Judge Franklin H. Fessenden of Greenfield, the presiding justice, with an ebony cane mounted with a solid gold knob and suitably inscribed.

officials, calling to their attention that Holyoke appreciates the coming of the first playground institute. After the mayor's brief address President Joseph Lee was introduced. He said:

"The first thing for playground people to remember is that the child is a child all the year round. A summer playground is like summer food or summer sleep. It is good for summer, but it does not fill the need."

"Our games must fill the year and must also fill the nature of the child and of different children. Our list of national games in America is far too small, and the playground association is now doing what it can to cure this deficiency."

George B. Markham, principal of the ever recreation center, public school 159, New York city, will speak today on "Afternoon and Evening Recreation Centers in Public School Buildings." This afternoon, Prof. G. B. Affleck of the International Y. M. C. A. training school, Springfield, is scheduled to speak on "Playground Equipment," and Miss Ellen LeGarde, director of physical training in the public schools of Providence, R. I., will speak on "Playground Activities for Children Under Ten Years of Age." A reception will be held tonight in the home of Mrs. William G. Dwight, the local committee to be in charge.

The sessions on Saturday will be in the morning, afternoon and evening. "Playground Activities for Boys from Ten to Fourteen Years of Age" will be discussed in the morning by Prof. J. H. McCurdy of the International Y. M. C. A. training school; playground activities for girls of the same age by Miss Beulah Kennard, president of the Pittsburg, Pa., playground association, and "Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts" by Arthur A. Carey, president of the free reading room, Waltham. The afternoon session will include a demonstration of teaching games and folk dances, by Miss LeGarde, and a question box. The evening session will be open to the public and there will be two addresses, one by Edward W. Sitt, director of playgrounds and recreation centers, board of education, New York city, on "Recreative Use of Public School Buildings for Working Boys and Girls;" and another by Joseph Lee on "Use of Leisure."

Those who are attending the institute will be shown the playground system in Springfield and Holyoke.

SAXONIA LOADING 4500 TONS IN 26 HOURS IS RECORD

Carrying 30 saloons, 80 second cabin, and 400 storage passengers, the Cunard line steamer Saxonia, Captain Benison, sailed from East Boston for Queenstown and Liverpool early today.

All local records were broken for quick loading as in 26 hours 4500 tons of freight were loaded.

Her shipments included 90,000 bushels of wheat, 5000 bales of cotton, 150 tons of lumber, 2000 barrels of apples, 400 tons of provisions, one refrigerator of frozen goods and beef, and a large amount of merchandise.

The liner left port at 1 o'clock this morning, an unusual hour of sailing, due to delay in arriving. Among the saloon passengers were Joseph D. Aiken of New Haven, Mrs. F. B. Ballou, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stone, Miss M. G. Stone, Miss F. Stone and Mrs. Mortimer Smith of Boston; Calvin Lord, who is going to Australia to represent a Boston wool concern, and Mrs. Lord; Mrs. T. Graham, T. B. Meteyard and Mrs. T. C. Meteyard, Miss Margaret Ballou, Dr. J. H. Burgin, G. M. Dennison, Miss Graham, C. Graham, W. H. Hutchinson of London, Miss Lois Lord, W. M. Sanderson, W. P. Simpson, Mrs. Simpson, F. W. Smalley, Mrs. W. H. Soley and Ernest Shepley.

Leading Events in Athletic World

RULES OF FOOTBALL WILL BE DISCUSSED AT I. A. A. CONVENTION

Intercollegiate Athletic Association With Captain Pierce Presiding, Will Convene in New York This Month.

SUMMER BASEBALL

NEW YORK—Serious consideration regarding football and other branches of college athletics will come at the fifth annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, which convenes at the Hotel Astor on Thursday, Dec. 29. The association has a widespread influence in intercollegiate sport, and has an active membership of 68 universities and colleges. While some members of the so-called "big four" in the East are not identified with the organization, the association believes that they will join the ranks eventually. Yale, Princeton and Cornell have not joined, although Harvard and Pennsylvania are active members.

Capt. P. E. Pierce, United States army, of Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., formerly in charge of athletics at West Point, is the president and he has worked hard for the organization since he has been at its head and many reforms have been brought about. It was this organization that first advocated reforms in football five seasons ago and brought about changes which eventually were merged into the present rules and saved the gridiron game.

Football is sure to be a topic of general discussion at this year's meeting and the past season will be reviewed closely. Of course, changes of one sort or another will be recommended, as usual, and the forward pass and on-side kick will come in for both criticism and praise. It is believed that some recommendation will be made to increase a team's chances of crossing the goal line, for under the present restrictions at rushing the ball this feat became a difficult task during the past season. The number of small score and no-score games were unusually large.

Summer baseball is another subject which is coming up for discussion.

The Athletic Research Society will hold its meeting at the Hotel Astor on Thursday, Dec. 29, and this organization is sure to have many interesting suggestions to make about intercollegiate sport in general.

The session of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association will begin at 10 o'clock on Thursday, Dec. 29, and addresses will be made by the president, Prof. R. T. McKenzie of Pennsylvania, will speak on "A Chronicle of the Amateur Spirit." Prof. A. G. Smith of the University of Iowa will talk on "Conference, Direction, and Control of Athletics in the Middle West." The Rev. C. F. Aked, D. D., of this city will speak on "Athletics as a Function in National Life." The afternoon session will be given up to routine business.

YALE'S HOCKEY SCHEDULE OUT

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Yale's hockey team schedule for the coming season was announced last night minus the date with Harvard. Manager Reed said that this game was assured, but negotiations for the place as well as the date were still pending. The schedule follows:

Dec. 21—St. Paul's school of Concord, N. H., at New York; 27, 28 and 29, Princeton at Cleveland, O.; 30 and 31, Cornell at Chicago.

Jan. 2—Cornell at Chicago; 11, Columbia at New York; 14, Dartmouth at Boston; 21, Cornell at New York; 28, Princeton at New York.

Feb. 1—Springfield Training school of New Haven; 3, London Field Club at Albany, N. Y.; 4, Amherst at Amherst; 5, Massachusetts State College at New Haven.

FOOTBALL SHOWS FINANCIAL LOSS.

PHILADELPHIA—Football at the University of Pennsylvania during the season just closed did not pay as well as in former years and the balance appears on the wrong side of the ledger. At a meeting of the board of directors of the athletic association, John C. Gilpin, the treasurer, reported a decrease for the season of 1910 from that of the previous year of about $30,000. The members of the board say the decrease is due to the fact that on the date of every Pennsylvania game played this year there was some big counter attraction.

CORNELL TO PLAY LACROSSE.

NEW YORK—About 35 men reported at the meeting of the Lacrosse Association at Columbia University Thursday, to decide whether the sport was to continue on the Heights this year. Manager Meyers of the Athletic Association was the principal speaker, and said that inasmuch as real interest was shown to a greater extent than he expected, judging from the fall practice, a first-class coach would be engaged, and that the association would back the team in every way.

K. HUSZAGH GETS RECORD.

CHICAGO—Kenneth Huszagh, swimming for Lewis Institute, set a new interscholastic record of 58.25 for the 100-yard swim at the annual interscholastic meeting of the Illinois Athletic Club Thursday night.

BARRETT AGAIN LEADS BATTERS IN ASSOCIATION

Former Boston American Outfielder Far Ahead With Another Former Teammate in Third Place.

CHICAGO—James Barrett of the Milwaukee baseball club and the former Boston American outfielder again has the honors of leading the American Association in batting this year with the fine average of .353.

Of the players who took part in more than 60 games (Cravath, also a former Boston American player, but now with Minneapolis, had the best average, .326. The team averages and those of the leading 20 players were:

Veteran Chess Player Who Retains World's Championship Title

EMANUEL LASKER. Conqueror of D. Janowski.

EMANUEL LASKER RETAINS TITLE

BERLIN—Emanuel Lasker of New York retained the world's chess championship Thursday by defeating the challenger, D. Janowski of Paris, by a score of eight victories to none. Three games were drawn.

The eleventh game in the match, which was played Thursday at the Korkun place, proved an easy victory for Dr. Lasker, who wins, in addition to the championship title, the $1000 prize donated by M. M. Nardus of Paris.

Dr. Lasker won the tenth game of the championship match after a splendid contest. The game was begun on Tuesday, when after 31 moves it was adjourned while slightly in favor of Dr. Lasker.

NEW ASSOCIATION OF EASTERN SKATERS TO IMPROVE SPORT

More Liberal Policy in Administration of Rules Is Expected to Increase the Interest in These Events.

NEW YORK—Representatives of all the leading skating clubs in the State met at the St. Nicholas rink this week and organized the Eastern Skating Association with the following named officers: President, Cornelius Follens; St. Nicholas, S. C.; vice-president, David Slayback, Verona Lake, S. C.; secretary and treasurer, Charles Bower, chairman of the racing committee, Fred Tucker, Saratoga, S. C. The following clubs were represented: Riverside, S. C.; Saratoga Lake, S. C.; North Shrewsbury River, S. C.; St. Nicholas, S. C.; Saratoga, S. C.; Verona Lake, S. C.; Newburgh Wheelmen, Boston, S. C.; Syracuse, S. C., and the New York Athletic club, S. C.

The International Skating Union, which controls the sport in Canada and the United States, took away the charter of the old Eastern Amateur Skating Association, and is heartily indorsed for doing so. The trouble arose through the efforts of the latter body to have Edmund Lamy, the amateur champion, declared a professional, because of a technical omission on his part to register with the association. The matter was thrashed out at the annual meeting of the international union and, despite the fact that that body indorsed Lamy, President J. C. Hemmett refused to recede from his position and his association was forthwith ordered to return its charter.

The feeling prevailed among the delegates that with a more liberal policy in the administration of its affairs and in the treatment of the men who aspire to racing fame, interest in the sport ought to increase and result in making speed skating a more important factor in winter sports.

The delegates have been assured by President Follens that he could be depended upon to do his utmost to bring about a more satisfactory condition of affairs. He has placed the St. Nicholas rink at the disposal of the speed skaters for practice every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 5:30 p. m. and Wednesday and Friday evenings at 11 p. m., and has engaged Morris Wood, the professional champion and record holder, to attend each session to instruct and give pointers to ambitious young speed merchants on breaking away from the start, how to stride, take pace and the different details which combine to qualify a skater for racing.

Secretary Tucker of the International Union reported that the matter of dates for the championship races would be taken up at a meeting to be held in Chicago and that the East would be allotted desirable dates and events.

SIX-DAY BICYCLE RACERS IN SHARP SPRINTING DUEL

Rival Teams at Madison Square Have a 20-Minute Burst of Speed in Struggle for First Place.

NEW YORK—The duel between Clarke, of the newly organized Clarke-Rutt team, and Root, of the Moran-Root team, for premier honors is enlivening the six day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden.

The rivalry between these two teams is intense, and whenever Root and Clarke are on the track together they renew their fight with bursts of speed that bring the spectators to their feet.

When Clarke and Rutt teamed up, they were compelled to take the position held by the last team, which was two laps behind the field. They must make up these two laps before they can hope to compete in the final sprint tomorrow night.

Clarke started his first real attempt to gain the lap at 6:30 this morning. The teams had been riding in a listless manner since midnight. Clarke, coming on the track refreshed, went out from the bunch like a shot and inside of two laps was half a lap ahead and drawing away. Root, called hurriedly from his cot, started in pursuit, pacing the other riders. For 20 minutes there was wild sprinting and Root, leading the bunch, overtook Clarke.

At 10 o'clock the five leading teams had completed 1963 miles 3 laps. The record is 2050 miles 3 laps.

PETERSON HOPES TO PLAY AGAIN

Edward Peterson, captain of the East Boston high school basketball team, who stopped playing by request of his parents expects to get the permission of his parents to return to the game and play in the Dorchester game which takes place Jan. 6.

Meanwhile a battle royal is going on between Kelly, owner of last year's second team, and Falconer, a new man, to play the position until their captain returns to the game. Peterson's services will be greatly missed in the High School of Commerce game, which is one of the most important on the schedule. While Kelly and Falconer are both good men, they are not in a class with their captain, who played such a fine game last year.

Fred Sheehan, the former Boston Latin and Harvard basketball star, and James O'Regan, a former high school star, are adding Coach O'Brien in getting the men in shape for the Charlestown game, which takes place next Thursday.

INDIAN PRINCE TALKS CRICKET

(Special to The Monitor.) LONDON—At the Poona Cricketers' Club, Prince Ranjitsinhji, officially known as his Highness the Jam Sahib, presented prizes to the young Indian cricketers, and made on the occasion a speech containing some excellent advice. He said: "I feel I must point out to the members some defects in Indian cricket, which I have seen in Bombay and in Poona, where I have watched several important matches. Never let party spirit override your sense of fair play, or good form or manners, and don't be elated at your victory and mock your adversaries. Try to learn something from your opponents, and appreciate their work and profit by it."

The prince then told something of his experiences as an undergraduate at Cambridge, how for two seasons he apparently made no success, but how finally he proved successful, as everyone interested in cricket knows. To every schoolboy in England "Ranji" has been something of a hero, for perhaps there has hardly been a more brilliant player than his Highness the Jam Sahib of Nawanagar.

WAKEFIELD JOINS LEAGUE.

WAKEFIELD—The Middlesex High School Baseball League will have six teams next season instead of five. Wakefield, Woburn, Saugus, Stoneham, Reading and Peabody. Wakefield is the new high school admitted. Principal C. J. Emerson of the Stoneham high school is the new president and Principal H. A. Woodman of Peabody, secretary and treasurer. The Mystic Valley League, composed of the teams of the Reading, Stoneham, Woburn, Winchester and Arlington high schools will meet next week to elect officers and Wakefield will seek admission to this league also.

KING TO MANAGE BOWDOIN.

BRUNSWICK, Me.—R. P. King '12 of Ellsworth has been unanimously elected manager of the Bowdoin varsity football team. He will at once begin his duties as manager, and will begin to make up the team's schedule. M. H. Gray '12 of Oldtown, who was also nominated for the position, withdrew.

ANDERSON AT ST. AUGUSTINE.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla.—T. M. Anderson, Jr., the golf professional, has taken charge at the St. Augustine Golf Club for the season. Alex Smith, the open and metropolitan champion, changes from the Wykagyl Country Club for the winter on Jan. 1 to Belleair, Fla.

ATHLETICS BEAT ALMENDARES.

HAVANA—The baseball game between the Philadelphia Americans and the Almendares here Thursday resulted in a 2 to 1 victory for the Americans.

SCHOOL HOCKEY DATES ARRANGED AT CONFERENCE

Fifteen Schools Represented at Meeting of Association of Greater Boston Leagues—New Members Admitted.

TALK BY NORFOLK

Schedules were arranged by hockey team captains and managers representing 15 schools at the annual meeting of the Greater Boston Interscholastic Hockey Association Thursday night. The association is made up of the three Boston school hockey leagues, the preparatory, interscholastic and preparatory. The number in attendance was the largest in the history of the association. The meeting was held at the home of the organization's secretary, Harold C. Durrell, 17 Dana street, Cambridge.

Plans were made for the championship contests in the three leagues. In the interscholastic, Melrose high, Arlington high, Dorchester high, Rindge manual training, Somerville high and Boston College high will meet this season.

The preparatory league will have this year Cambridge Latin, Brookline high, Boston Latin and Wellesley high as its makeup, and the interscholastic division will have Medford high, Milton high, Roxbury Latin, Stone & Browne and Nichols schools as members.

John Norfolk, hockey manager of the Boston Arena, addressed the meeting and assured the representatives that he would do all in his power to have many of the school matches slated for the Boston Arena. The matches slated for the Boston Arena have been arranged provisionally. The arena management will have to approve the dates.

In the interscholastic league three new members, Dorchester high, Somerville and Boston College high were admitted. Wellesley high and Boston Latin are additions to the preparatory league, while three new schools were admitted to the interscholastic league, Stone, Browne & Nichols and Roxbury Latin. Mechanic Arts high was not represented.

TRAINING TABLE FOR BASKETBALL

Technology's basketball squad will go to the training table today. For the first time in the history of M. I. T. basketball the men will be required to partake of two meals a day at the Tech Union under the direction of Coach Frank Kanaly. The management has been considering this new move for some time, but has been unable to make satisfactory arrangements. It is hoped this schedule may be retained throughout the entire season. Those men who are required to go on to the training table at the start are the eight varsity players and as many of the second team as can make the new change. The list includes: Capt. T. B. Parker '11, Palmer, Eli, Johnson, Freedman, Schar, Crocker and Darling.

RATIONAL GOLF

Next year's British amateur championship is fixed to be played at Prestwick on Monday (May 29) and the succeeding days of that week. On Saturday (the 27th) the amateur international match will be played as a sort of opening ceremony to the championship week. The date is yet a long way ahead, but it is evident from the change which has been proposed in the playing of next year's amateur international match that the championship authorities and golfers generally have by no means come to a settled conviction as to whether, after all, such a match ought to be a permanent adjunct of the championship itself, says the London Field.

The one great drawback to the international matches both among the amateurs and the professionals which no favorable plea in their behalf can overlook is that they impose a very hard task on the players before the serious play of the week begins. Each match requires a great deal from all the leading players before the main competition opens, and among the amateurs especially there exists a feeling that the freshness and strength of one's game which ought to be held in reserve for the hard individual matches of the week should be preserved as much as possible instead of being required for a struggle which is but of secondary importance to the winning of the championship. As the arrangements of the amateur international have hitherto stood, indeed, the teams which reap the small amount of glory in being chosen to represent their respective countries suffer an obvious handicap as compared with the men chosen by the struggles of their colleagues, but who keep their energies fresh and elastic for the serious work in the ensuing week.

That this disadvantage seems to be recognized is apparent in the alterations of the professional international, to be played next year at Sandwich. At any rate, a new experiment in playing this match is to be tried, for instead of sides of professionals alone, as in former years, we are to have foursome matches between nine couples of amateurs and an equal number of professionals. The policy of introducing the foursome in these matches is assuredly a good one. It gets rid to a large extent of the pressure imposed on the leading individual players mentioned above, and it admits of a wider choice being made among those amateurs and professionals who are among the best of their class, though not necessarily occupying so much of general public attention. A good foursome player, though not able to cope with the leading professionals or amateurs single-handed with much prospect of success, may yet by good generalship enable his side to secure the majority of victories. The main point, however, in favor of international foursomes is that it brings prominently to the front a form of match play too much in danger in these days of universal scoring and four-ball matches of falling into desuetude as a recognized form of the game. For such trials of skill and strength as the international matches in both championships the foursome is admirably suited by reason of its less pressure to reconcile amateurs and professionals alike to the permanent establishment of these opening fixtures to the championship week.

Is the present method of fixing match handicap odds between two players fair? That is a question which has often been asked in golf controversies during the past quarter of a century; and an eminent golfer has raised it again today. His proposition is that a player should receive seven eighths of his handicap instead of the present three fourths on the ground that plus or scratch players can in actual practice always concede more than the official odds and then win their matches. The truth is, of course, that our present system of fixing odds between the two players is quite unsatisfactory. It is largely a rule-of-thumb process, and its imperfections, long obvious to all players, are due to the fact that a medal handicap is taken as the basis of guidance in adjusting a match, and it has in some way or another to be fitted into a wholly different system. The old method adopted among match players was to arrange the handicap before going out by an elaborate process of haggling, not only as to the number of strokes which the stronger player should concede, but the particular holes at which the strokes should be given. That was in the days before the uniform match handicap table, now a feature in all clubs, was devised or even thought of. In those early years, too, the fractions fixed upon were two thirds and one third of the difference, it being held as unreasonable that a player should be conceded the full enjoyment of his unimpaired medal handicap on the ground that he could easily fritter away two or three strokes at one hole and yet win. Laidlaw Purves then proposed that the fractions should be raised to three fourths and three eighths, and at these fractions all match odds have since been governed, apparently to the satisfaction of most players.

Yet it is undeniable that experience, especially in these later years, seems to prove that the fractions could apparently be raised without any detriment to the general closeness of results in matches, especially among the membership of those clubs whose executives bestow some care in watching the improvement of the poorer players, and in adjusting their high handicaps so as to correspond with their improving progress. It would be a different matter with strangers making a match, each side unfamiliar with the play of the other; and here possibly the established rule today of three fourths and three eighths would have to prevail, or, in default of it, an arrangement by the familiar process known as the "haggling of the market." An experiment was once tried at Blackheath with the seven-eighths difference, and it worked satisfactorily, while on another occasion a foursome tournament at full odds was carried through; and of 19 matches played 12 were won by the givers of odds. The solution of the matter, however, is not very difficult to seek. It does not need any enactment by the rules committee or any other authority to prove or to falsify the contention of those who maintain that the present three fourths difference works unjustly against the receiver of odds. Each committee of a club where close attention is paid to handicapping can gain the information by arranging to play a handicap among themselves on the seven eighths basis, or even at the full medal score, if there is reasonable certainty that the odds given to each player represent fairly his playing form. The experiment, therefore, is worth trying, for the tabulated results of matches held over a certain time on a good green would be a much better and safer guide for others to follow in establishing the system slowly than any amount of barren speculative controversy.

Although Harvard's hockey team has less than an even chance to win from the crack Boston Hockey Club in its opening match of the season tomorrow night at the Boston Arena the players should make a better showing than the Technology seven did against the club team Wednesday night.

Boston defeated the Tech men 8 to 0 but the Crimson players will not concede the clubmen one goal. Harvard has a team of speedier men and by special arrangements with the game officials will be allowed to make frequent substitutions. If Harvard sends in fresh players at intervals Boston will be forced to play its best game to defeat the collegians, who are all ambitious to make regular positions on the varsity teams.

The speed races which are held between the halves of the hockey match are exciting great interest among the lovers of fast skating. If the number of entries warrant it the competitors in the relay race will each race five laps.

E. R. SWEETLAND FOR COACH.

MADISON, Wis.—Thomas Barry, the old Brown football player, who has been immensely successful as head coach at Wisconsin for the past three years, will probably not be recommended by Athletic Director Ehler for reappointment next fall. The student body is practically unanimous for Barry's retention, but it is understood the Ehler proposes to secure to appointment of E. R. Sweetland, who was engaged ostensibly as varsity crew coach, as head of the football coaching staff.

NEW ORLEANS MONUMENT TO AUDUBON IS UNVEILED

NEW ORLEANS—A monument to the memory of John James Audubon, the naturalist, who was a native of Louisiana, among the oaks in Audubon park was unveiled today, the direction of Prof. James M. Dillard of Tulane University.

Addresses were made by Mayor Berhman, Ashton Phelps and the Rev. A. Gordon Bakewell, a nephew of Audubon. Miss Mildred Parham, another relative of Audubon, assisted by Miss Marie Fluker, unveiled the statue.

Mrs. James L. Bradford organized the Audubon Monument Association and gave the proceeds of her "Life of Audubon" to the fund for the monument.

The monument was designed by E. V. Valentine of Virginia, who designed the statue of Lee in the Hall of Fame. It is a massive bronze figure of Audubon, with open sketch book and poised pencil in hand, and gaze uplifted to the haunts of birds. The heroic figure stands upon a monolith of Georgia granite.

This memorial to Audubon is the only one in New Orleans erected to the memory of a native Louisianian.

MAYOR GAYNOR IS PRAISED BY
CIVIC WORKER

The administration of Mayor Gaynor was praised by the Rev. Thomas R. Slicer of New York, a civic worker and former opponent of Mr. Gaynor, in an address on the opportunities for club men to assist in bettering municipal conditions before several hundred members of the Boston City Club last evening.

Mr. Slicer said that Mayor Gaynor had saved the city millions of dollars in the short time he had been at the head of the city. The saving had been effected largely through the bureau of municipal research which works hand in hand with the mayor.

Mr. Slicer said that the Boston City Club, with its 3200 members, could be serviceable to the community if it took the form of a non-partisan political club.

JUDGE COLT WINS
ON A STRAW VOTE

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Judge LeBaron B. Colt, one of the two Republican candidates to succeed Nelson W. Aldrich in the United States Senate, received support in a test vote taken by a local newspaper in the second representative district of East Providence. Out of 256 Republican voters, 229 voted for Judge Colt, 28 for Henry F. Lippitt, the other Republican candidate, and 11 for Judge Arthur L. Brown, Democratic candidate.

Only persons known as Republicans were allowed to enter this contest. Joseph W. Sampson, Republican assemblyman-elect from that district, has declared publicly that he will vote for the candidate for the Senate favored by his constituency. The Republican party organization has endorsed Henry F. Lippitt for the place, and has asked all Republicans elected to the 1911 Assembly to vote for him.

TRY TO FORESTALL
TURKISH REVOLT

CONSTANTINOPLE—To offset any reactionary coup to the reported establishment of a military dictatorship as its object, the minister of war today summoned the commanders of all garrisons throughout Turkey and the leading chiefs of police to hasten to Constantinople for a conference for repressive measures.

A fresh revolutionary outbreak has been made imminent by the parliamentary exposures of the Young Turks' cruelty to their political enemies.

All the reactionary leaders are under the closest surveillance by the government and wholesale arrests are expected.

BOSTON HISTORIAN
GETS GOLD MEDAL

NEW YORK—James Ford Rhodes of Boston was awarded the gold medal of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, Thursday, in recognition of his historical writings.

This medal is annually given for distinction in some branch of arts or letters. The presentation took place at a joint session of the National Institute and the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton, president of the institute, presented the medal and addresses were made by John Bigelow, Nicholas Murray Butler, and others.

"Apotheosis of the Dance."

A history of dancing from primitive times to the dances of today was given by Mrs. Lilla Viles Wyman at Jordan hall Thursday evening, with illustrations by one of her pupils, Miss Virginia Tanner. A small but highly appreciative audience heard an authoritative discourse that was worthy of a crowded house.

Mrs. Wyman said that the first dance was undoubtedly a confused assemblage of leaps and attitudes, which later learned rhythm perhaps from the trees and added cadence in the beat of drums and music in the sound of simple pipes. She spoke at length on the Greek dance, which she regards as the ultimate of beauty, and reminded her hearers that the Greek drama was a compound of singing, dancing, music and poetry, and employed the arts of architecture, sculpture and painting as well.

Every nation, she said, has a characteristic dance except America, though we are thought to be a nation of rakers and walkers by Europeans. Every province in Spain has a dance of its own. Mrs. Wyman then illustrated several Spanish dances, and showed how the costumes were used in their native land, and the variety of sound of which they are capable.

The speaker then dwelt upon modern developments of the dance, and smiled indulgently over the protests of those who thought the best music should not be "interpreted" in dance. Mrs. Wyman here as everywhere, showed her enthusiasm for her work, and referred to dancing as "the oldest and most beautiful of the arts."

She paid tribute to the present day leaders in this line, and especially lauded the work of Gene, St. Denis and Pavlova and Mordkin, the Russians. She touched lightly on stage dancing, especially the supercilious show girl and the excellent chorus lady.

Mrs. Tanner's dozen illustrative dances were of high order and heartily applauded. Especially was she successful in depicting the lighter emotions of timidity, innocence and joy. An Egyptian ritual dance, filled with angular yet graceful attitudes, and an archaic court dance of the Canaries were pleasing novelties. The classic Arabian dance was beautifully done, and the "symbolic poem" danced by teacher and pupil told an imaginative dramatic story of a contest between fire and water.

Neither "The Lottery Man" nor Miss Grace Van Studdiford will come to the Majestic on Monday evening, as announced at various times. The announcement is now Sydney Drew in "Billy," a farce that has been found highly amusing in other cities for two seasons. It is a development of the plot of "Billy's Tombstones," in which Mr. Drew appeared in vaudeville for a long period.

PUCCINI'S OPERA DATE FIXED.

NEW YORK—Puccini's new opera, "The Girl of the Golden West," will be performed at the Metropolitan Opera House Saturday evening, Dec. 10, for the first time on any stage. Caruso will sing the tenor. The libretto of the opera was based on a play of the same name by the American dramatist, David Belasco.

PEOPLE MUST RULE.
NOT CORPORATIONS.
IS CALIFORNIA PLAN

NEW YORK—"For the last 10 years we seem to have gone to the extreme in this country in protecting property and corporations. The individual has been a minor quantity. This is to be changed. Hereafter in California at least the individual is to be considered and not the 'machine.' And California so will lead that all of the other states may follow."

Governor-elect Hiram Johnson of California, having secured support at Washington for the San Francisco Panama-Pacific exposition, delivered the above statement in the Outlook office today as he waited to see Theodore Roosevelt.

Mr. Johnson says the legislation which he expects the California Legislature will enact at its coming session will not alone be progressive, it will be radical. The initiative and referendum, the recall, absolute control of public service corporations and a comprehensive employers' liability law, which will abolish the fellow servant cause and protect all classes of workers are a few of the things he will recommend in his annual message.

"This does not mean that there will be confiscatory legislation," he continued, "nor that either the large property owner or the corporations will not be protected. We will simply go back to the original plan of the nation founders which was that the people should rule."

COL. ROOSEVELT'S

At the Railway Terminals

In order to give Stoughton a direct early morning train to Boston the New Haven road will put on a new train Monday, due at South station at 9:30 a. m., and to relieve the 7:35 a. m. Providence train of its Fall River connection a new train will leave South station at 7:45 a. m. for New Bedford and Fall River.

The Central Vermont railway private car, occupied by General Manager Jones and party, was attached to the Central Vermont express from North station Thursday night en route to St. Albans.

Fred Danaher, stenographer in Train Master Hammill's office of the Boston & Albany road at South station has been promoted to a crew dispatchership, a newly-created position.

Adams Express Company received a large shipment of western draft horses Thursday over the Pennsylvania and New Haven roads from the Pittsburgh yards, consigned to the New England market.

AVIATION SCHOOL
FOR LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES—Los Angeles soon may become the training station for officers in the United States army and navy in the matter of aerial navigation.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the aviator, has offered to instruct several army and navy department officers, who may be detailed for the purpose, without expense to the government.

Mr. Curtiss has leased the motordrome near Playa del Rey for experimental purposes and it is there that he intends to establish a training school. He intends to build various types of aeroplanes.

RHODE ISLAND STATE COLLEGE TO GIVE WEEK TO AID OF FARMERS

Holiday Vacation Period to Be Occupied With Series of Lectures by Authorities on Agriculture.

WOMEN'S PROGRAM

KINGSTON, R. I.—The farmers' week of instruction at the Rhode Island State College during the four days beginning Dec. 27 and the home economics conference to be held at the same institution, Dec. 28-30, inclusive, promise to make the holiday vacation week at the institution a busy period of instruction.

Farmers' week last year was attended by more than 60 registered students, and this year in adding the home economics conference to the week of instruction the college is seeking to interest both the farmer and his wife and all those to whom the keeping of the home appeals. In both the farmers' week and home economics conference the plan is to present popular subjects by well-known lecturers in a practical form and to allow free discussion.

The following plan for the home economics conference has been prepared by Prof. Helen B. Thompson of the college women's department:

Wednesday, Dec. 28, at 2 p. m.: Foods: "The Food Requirements of Children," Miss Helen B. Thompson; "Food Constituents," Miss Alice C. Slater; "Practical Methods of Measuring Food Values," Miss Helen B. Thompson.

Thursday, Dec. 29, at 9:30 a. m.: Sanitation and hygiene: "The Sanitary Care of Food," Miss H. B. Thompson; "Household Hygiene," Miss A. C. Slater; "Exercise," Nellie A. Harrah, director of physical training for women. Thursday at 2 p. m.: House Furnishing: "Selection of Furniture," Miss H. B. Thompson; "Space and Color Values," Mrs. M. L. Chamberlain, dean of women; informal tea, following lectures.

Friday, Dec. 30, at 9 a. m.: Household Administration: "The Selection of Economical Foods," Miss H. B. Thompson; "The Family Budget," Miss Dorothy J. Bullock; "Habit Formation in Childhood," Prof. F. K. Sechrist of the English and modern language department.

Lectures, discussions and demonstration work of the home economics conference and the farmers' weeks are open to the public. The program for the farmers' week is:

Dec. 27, at 9 a. m.: "Commercial Peach Culture in Rhode Island," Prof. A. E. Stone; "The Robber Cow," Prof. H. Burdick; "Feeding of Winter Chickens," B. L. Hartwell; "Corn," Prof. George Adams; "Strawberries," Wilfred Wheeler.

Dec. 28: "The Propagation of Plants," George R. Cobb; "Silage," Prof. F. S. Putney; "Systems of Handling Poultry," Prof. D. J. Lambert; "Alfalfa," Director H. J. Wheeler; "Farm Administration," Prof. J. W. Sanborn of New Hampshire.

Dec. 29: "Apple Culture," Prof. A. E. Stone; "Swine," Prof. F. S. Putney; "Poultry Houses and Fixtures," Prof. D. J. Lambert; "Potato Culture," Prof. G. E. Adams; "The Consumer's Dollar," H. W. Collingwood, editor of the Rural New Yorker.

Dec. 30: "Spray Mixtures," George R. Cobb; "The Farm Barn," Prof. F. S. Putney; "The Farmer's Hen," Prof. D. J. Lambert; "Forage Crops," Prof. G. E. Adams; "The Cost of Crop Production," G. E. Adams.

ATHLETIC MEETS FOR BOYS' CLUBS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—To keep their boy membership interested, the Springfield, Holyoke, Chicopee and Chester boys' club directors have decided on several athletic and gymnastic meets. Basketball teams will be organized and games will be played in each place. The Springfield club will open its fine new building Dec. 14.

The Chicopee Club, although organized only a month or two ago, is meeting with good support, $1166 having been quickly subscribed; and the club now has 294 members enrolled.

ELECTRIFICATION DELAYED.

MONTREAL, Que.—Inquiries among the officials of the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk show that there is little likelihood for the present of either company following the practice of other railways in some of the larger American cities and electrifying their lines within the city boundaries.

ZETA PSI FRATERNITY MEN AT DINNER WILL HEAR THAT HOUSE IS FREE FROM DEBT

VIEW OF ZETA PSI HOUSE, TUFTS COLLEGE.

The 30 members of Kappa chapter, Tufts College, of the Zeta Psi fraternity, and nearly 100 alumni are to join at the Parker house tomorrow evening in the fifty-sixth annual initiatory dinner, during which 12 neophytes are to receive the "final touches."

Announcement will be made by Prof. Leo R. Lewis of the Tufts faculty of the liquidation of the mortgage which has been held by the fraternity house ever since it was purchased some years ago. This is the climax of an emancipation campaign waged by Professor Lewis during the past few years.

The Rev. James H. Holden of Roxbury is to act as toastmaster at the dinner. He will be presented to the guests by Parker McClester of Detroit, one of the senior members of the fraternity. Among other speakers will be David T. Montague, chairman of the Boston city Republican committee.

The neophytes who will be guests of honor are F. Lincoln Steele of Cincinnati, Roland H. Page of Boston, class of 1912; George F. Bennett of Cambridge, class of 1913; and Charles W. Alexander of Roxbury, Courtney H. Gendron of Winchester, Herbert E. Metcalf of Taunton, Wayne S. Smith of Meriden, Conn., Leon J. Sturtevant of Lexington, Francis A. Maushy of West Somerville, Everett B. Miller of Meriden, Conn., Robert A. Smith of Hardwick, Conn., and Howard E. Grube of New Canaan, Conn., all from the freshman class.

Y. M. C. A. TO MAKE PUBLIC ITS REASONS FOR CHANGE OF SITE

Jacob P. Bates, a member of the board of directors of the Boston Y. M. C. A., said today that an official statement would be given out Saturday as to the position of the association with regard to the abandonment of the site for the new building at the corner of Arlington and Newbury streets and the acquisition of a new site on Huntington avenue. The new site reported to be selected is opposite the Boston opera house in the Fenway district and is considered to be better adapted to the development of the association.

Reasons for the change are said to include building laws which would not permit certain industrial activities included in the curriculum of the association and probable objections of neighboring property owners to the erection of a nine-story building. It is not expected that a change will check the progress of construction, as the same exterior plans may be utilized and the interior details have not yet been developed.

BROCKTON BOY SCOUTS COUNCIL IS ORGANIZED

BROCKTON, Mass.—Organization was effected at the first meeting of the local council of the Boy Scouts of America held Thursday afternoon at the rooms of the Board of Trade. The scope and character of the Boy Scout movement was explained by a committee consisting of Charles A. Jenney, C. M. Ripley, Dr. Charles G. Miles, W. H. Jennings and the Rev. J. E. Nyhan.

Charles A. Jenney, principal of the Lincoln grammar school, was clerk of the meeting, and C. M. Ripley presided. The council organized with the choice of Robert Cook, C. M. Ripley, D. J. Mulverhill, John Arnold and Elroy S. Thompson as executive committee.

RIVERS AND HARBORS CONGRESS ASSURED OF AID FROM NATION

WASHINGTON—Delegates of the national rivers and harbors congress in session here are reported confident that the adoption by the government of a policy of inland waterways improvement with annual appropriations is within sight.

Positive declaration was made to the assemblage Thursday by Champ Clark, looked upon by the delegates as probable speaker of the next House of Representatives, that the House would approve such a bill and make necessary appropriations. A similar opinion was expressed by other speakers, including Governor Harmon of Ohio and General Bixby, chief of United States engineers.

In his address, Representative Clark urged the delegates to direct their efforts for legislation to the Senate and White House. "If all the words in favor of improving our waterways," he said, "could be transmuted in dollars, we would have funds sufficient to build granite dikes on both sides of every river in the country. What puzzles me is that we all profess to be in favor of waterway improvement and yet nobody seems to have sense enough to devise a system of development that can be started and carried through."

"I am in favor of economy, but every expenditure is not waste. Nearly every member of the House of Representatives is ready to help you."

General Bixby declared that the day had passed for the appearance in river and harbor bills of projects "where the worthiness of the improvement is subject to any reasonable doubt."

"The special provisions of Congress," he said, "with respect to the investigation of any new river and harbor projects have raised so many safeguards that it will be practically impossible for any unworthy projects to get into coming river and harbor bills, unless Congress changes its present rules."

The delegates Thursday evening listened to addresses by Mrs. Hoyle Tenkies, president of the women's national rivers and harbors congress, and others. Trunk line waterways from the middle West to the sea are needed, declared Perry A. Randall of Ft. Wayne, Ind., president of the Ft. Wayne Waterways Association, before the country can have a comprehensive system of inland waterways.

"The railroads are asking to increase their rates so as to produce an annual income of $400,000,000 more than their present rates give them," he said. "That is what they say, but I believe with half a chance they will make it much more. If not closely watched this increase will amount to more than the national rivers and harbor congress asked to be expended by the nation on waterways for 10 years. If the government could spend $500,000,000 on waterways in five years it would save to the people thereafter every year more than the amount spent."

FARMERS' SOCIETY TO ELECT.
BRIDGEWATER, Mass.—Plymouth County Agricultural Society will hold its annual meeting and election of officers tomorrow in the town hall. A farmers' institute in the forenoon at 10:30 o'clock will be addressed by E. M. Harwood of Boston.

Navy Notes.
CHERBOURG.—The first division of the Atlantic fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Scaton Schroeder, arrived here at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon and exchanged national salutes with the arsenal. There was a five-gun salute for the American consular agent, who called and exchanged boarding visits. Then Rear Admiral Schroeder and a flag lieutenant called on Rear Admiral Berryer on board the French battleship the Bouvet and received a 13-gun salute.

HAVANA, Cuba.—Pile driving has begun around the wreck of the Maine.

NEWPORT, R. I.—A remarkable record in wireless telegraphy was made recently at the torpedo station here: The station "picked up" Colon, Panama, and a conversation was carried on for nearly 20 minutes. It is said that each letter was obtained with satisfaction and the checking up process was perfectly carried out. The distance is 1281 miles.

WASHINGTON.—The annual report of Rear Admiral Reginald F. Nicholson, chief of the bureau of navigation, just made public, shows that of the 30,743 enlisted men, other than petty officers, in the naval service 91.51 per cent are native born, 3.46 per cent are naturalized and 41 per cent have declared their intentions of becoming citizens.

WASHINGTON.—It has been found impossible to construct on the Pacific coast the collier, authorized by the act of 1908, within the cost limit of $1,000,000 fixed by Congress, and an additional appropriation will be required if the ship is to be built.

Marine Corps Notes.
WASHINGTON.—Until the pending vacancy in the office of commandant of the United States marine corps is filled by a permanent appointment the affairs of the corps will be administered under the direct supervision and control of the secretary or acting secretary of the navy. This is the result of an opinion rendered by Attorney-General Wickersham at the request of Secretary Meyer.

URGES TRAINING FOR HOUSEWORK

WALTHAM, Mass.—Plans for the opening of a school for training in household service in this city are under consideration.
Miss Charlotte McLeod, head of the Training School for Household Service at Brattleboro, Vt., is advocating the idea and she is to meet several interested persons tomorrow evening.
The course in the proposed school would include cooking, cleaning, sewing, laundering and general housework. It is planned to give pupils board and lodging free of charge and to pay each a small salary.

BEGIN THE WORK TO RAISE MAINE

HAVANA.—Pile driving has begun around the wreck of the Maine. Steel for the cofferdam is being unloaded. Night work will start as soon as the electric feed wires from the land have been connected.

El Mundo in its morning edition says that once the raising of the Maine is accomplished the dam there built should be used as a basement for a monument.

MAYOR'S WEST ROXBURY PLANS ARE DISAPPROVED

Mayor Fitzgerald's proposition to widen Washington street, West Roxbury, to 100 feet and secure a state highway from Lagrange street to Metropolitan avenue, does not meet with the approval of the finance commission.

The finance commission deals with the subject by answering three questions propounded by itself, namely:

"Is it necessary to construct a road 100 feet wide, of the boulevard type, with a space in the middle reserved for the exclusive use of the street railway, as the act provides?"

"Would the construction of the road under the terms of chapter 527 of the Acts of 1910 place upon the city of Boston a greater burden than it ought to assume?"

"Can the city's financial interests be protected better and the needs of the district in question be served as well under another plan as under the act of 1910?"

To the first question the commission answers that the demand for improvement of Washington street at the point named is justified by existing conditions. The commission, however, does not believe it necessary to construct the street from Forest Hills to the Dedham line 100 feet wide throughout. There seems to be no necessity for a boulevard construction with a reserved space for street cars.

The second question is answered in the negative and the third question in the affirmative.

The finance commission recommends that the city council refuse to accept chapter 527 of the Acts of 1910, and that the city petition the state highway commission to construct the extension at a width of 60 feet under the terms of the general highway law.

JOSEPH WALKER ONE OF SPEAKERS AT NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Robert S. Conklin, one of the "old guard" of New York, defended the existing order, and Joseph Walker of Boston, speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, and Horace B. Cheney of Manchester, advocated the "direct primary" at the opening banquet of the year of the Economic Club Thursday night.

E. P. Arvine of this city sided with Mr. Conklin against the direct primary and stood for the effacement of party politics from municipal government.

Mr. Conklin, who as a member of a New York commission, made a tour of the country investigating the result of the direct primary, quoted copiously from the records of the commission to show that citizens of states where the direct primary is in vogue are directing their efforts towards having it repealed.

Mr. Walker, unlike many others who favor the direct primary, said he considered the referendum and initiative steps towards the overthrow of representative government. He said the constitution was the great check against unfair and partial legislation and declared that he was strongly against anything which would tend to lessen its influence.

FIRST MOVE MADE IN WASHINGTON FOR PORT AT MONTAUK

WASHINGTON—Representative Cocks of New York had a conference with the sub-committee of the committee on rivers and harbors yesterday on a proposal to put into the river and harbor bill an authorization for a survey of the harbor of Fort Pond Bay as a preliminary to making Montauk Point a port of entry.

This is the first action taken publicly toward the project of establishing at Montauk Point a steamship terminal. The committee was given to understand that the International Mercantile & Marine Company, embracing the Red Star, the White Star, the American and the American Transport Lines were behind the plan with the cooperation of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The action of Mr. Cocks is due to the attitude of the war department in relation to the plan of J. Pierpont Morgan and others to lengthen the Chelsea piers 75 feet in order to accommodate the 900-foot White Star liners due at New York next year.

Mr. Morgan took up the matter with Secretary Dickinson on his recent visit here, but made little progress. It was said that within a few days after Mr. Morgan's visit President McCrear of the Pennsylvania and Vice-President R. A. S. Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine Company visited Montauk and decided to take measures looking toward the landing of big liners there.

It was also said that the directors of the Pennsylvania road at a recent meeting approved the project and have taken steps to make plans for piers, coaling facilities and other necessary adjuncts of a steamship and railway terminal.

WALTHAM SCHOOL SAVINGS BOOKS

WALTHAM, Mass.—Members of the Woman's Club have appointed a committee to confer with William D. Parkinson, superintendent of schools, upon the introduction into the public schools of the savings book.

Mrs. H. E. Priest, Mrs. Nora Stanley Smiley and Mrs. E. W. Whitney, members of the committee, are to be addressed Sunday afternoon by Miss Antoinette Root of the Framingham Normal school who has seen several home savings bank plans in successful operation.

$500,000 STADIUM URGED FOR YALE AS ALUMNI GIFT

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Emphasis is laid on the need for a new concrete athletic stadium at Yale, to cost $500,000 and to seat 50,000, by the Yale Alumni Weekly, which calls on alumni to raise the necessary sum.

"The solution of Yale's difficulties seems to some to lie in the gift to Yale by a public-spirited American citizen of the sum necessary to erect for future generations of Yale undergraduates a stadium for most, if not all, their intercollegiate contests."

"But this possibility is more or less remote, and in the mean time something ought to be done" is the conclusion of the alumni organ.

LEASING OF ALASKAN COAL FIELDS FAVORED BY MR. BALLINGER

Secretary of Interior, in Annual Report, Says There Are 711,906,409 Acres of Public Land Remaining.

AGAINST MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON—Unappropriated and unreserved there are now 711,986,409 acres of public lands in continental United States and Alaska says Secretary Ballinger of the department of the interior in his annual report just made public.

"Under more conservative theories the question now is of saving the remnant of the public lands from monopolization or misuse without abandoning the old policies of encouraging development," says Secretary Ballinger. "The highest productive use of these lands is the concern of the people. The methods of securing this use are the concern of national and state governments."

"New or amendatory legislation respecting our public lands should be direct, simple, effective, and relate principally to the proper form of disposition of the withdrawn lands—water power sites, oil lands, coal lands and rights of way over public lands."

The secretary renews his recommendation that the Alaskan coal cases under investigation on charges of fraud or irregularities be transferred from the jurisdiction of the general land office to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia. Appeals in land cases from the decision of the interior department, he urges, should be made to the same tribunal.

"In addition to the necessity of opening up and developing coal deposits in Alaska for railroad operation," he says, "it is equally important that it should be available for mining operations and as a means of supplying the navy and trans-Pacific commerce."

He points out that in Alaska it is possible that a leasing system could be adapted to the country with efficiency and with less complication than in the states. In the states the administrative policy is to secure by appraisement and sale of the coal deposits what would accrue to the government if the deposits were mined on a royalty basis, but this is not possible under existing law in Alaska, where the price is fixed at a flat acreage rate.

Secretary Ballinger declares himself in favor of a general leasing system of oil and gas-bearing lands, such a system as will promote legitimate development of this industry, prevent monopoly, and conserve one of the great natural resources of the country, and recommends that the government adopt a liberal policy in opening the oil lands in California.

Referring to waterpower sites, of which, the report says, 1,450,000 acres have been withdrawn from the public domain, the secretary submits that as the states own the waters in the streams and have police powers to supervise and control public utilities, it would seem a direct and effective method of control would be to trustee the power sites to the states in some such manner as proposed by a bill now pending in Congress.

Among other recommendations he urges an amendment to existing desert land laws limiting the maximum area which may be entered to 100 acres; that no railroad construction be allowed upon public lands without the interior department's approval, and that it be a criminal offense to hunt or kill game in national parks or reserves.

OPERA MANAGER GETS DECORATION

NEW ORLEANS—M. Jules Layolle, manager of the French Opera Company that has just inaugurated the season here with a brilliant "first night," has had the decoration of officer of public instruction bestowed upon him. This decoration, symbolized by a rosette of purple ribbon, was presented to the impressario by M. Veran Dejoix, consul-general of France, on behalf of the French government, acting through M. Doumergue, French minister of public instruction at Paris. The honor was conferred upon M. Layolle in consideration of his efforts towards the promotion of high standards of art and his successful management of French opera in New Orleans and other American cities.

ROCKPORT QUARRIES TURNING OUT STONE FOR U. S. WORKS

Thousands of Tons of Stone Being Removed to Construct Breakwaters, Dikes and Harbors of Refuge.

One Company Engaged on $7,000,000 Job at Cape Ann—Plymouth and Provincetown Improvements.

ROCKPORT, Mass.—Many thousand tons of stone are being removed from this section of the state for use by contractors building breakwaters, dikes and harbors of refuge for Massachusetts harbors under the supervision of Col. Frederic V. Abbot, the army engineer in Boston.

The work starts with renewed vigor at this season for construction is being gradually closed for the winter. It is in December that large forces are put to work in the quarries to cut stone, load it on flat cars, then on barges and send it to the scene of work, to be placed in position in the spring.

In and around Rockport there are numerous quarries. At the Folly Point quarries of the Breakwater Company of Philadelphia, considerably more than 1,000,000 riprap stone is being quarried. This firm is now building an $18,000 riprap dike on Long Beach, Plymouth harbor, and it is the lowest bidder to build the breakwater at Provincetown harbor, which will give that historical port a $140,000 harbor of refuge. The stone for this breakwater, in event of this company taking the contract would come from the Folly Point quarries.

Besides the Provincetown and Plymouth contracts, the Rockport Granite Company and the Pigeon Harbor Granite Company of Rockport received from Colonel Abbot today a contract to construct a $50,000 rubble-stone dike at the north jetty in Newburyport harbor. The stone for this work will be taken from their quarries here.

This firm is now working on the $7,000,000 harbor of refuge at Sandy bay, Cape Ann, and the stone used is taken from the Rockport quarries. Stone will be taken from quarries in Rockport to make $25,000 worth of repairs to breakwaters and dikes on the islands of Boston harbor.

Large boiler plants, compressors and engines are erected in the quarries. Streams are backed up into reservoirs, a pipe line taps the reservoir and a high-pressure pump forces the water against the earth, which melts away and leaves the bare granite.

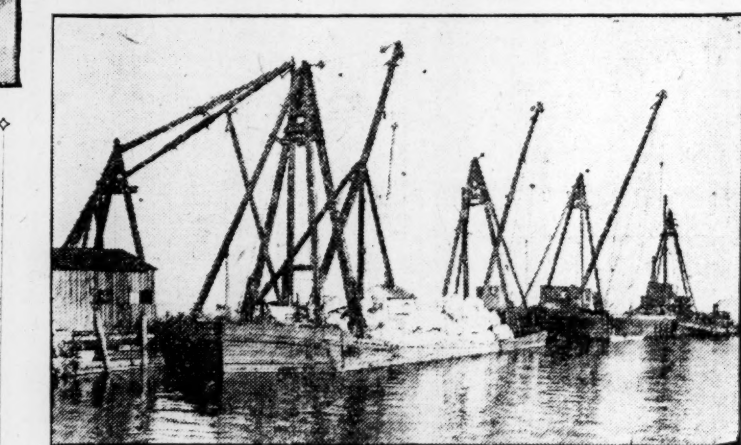

Then the drillers with their little machines begin to peck away at the stone, sinking holes 20 and 30 feet deep. These holes are charged with a high explosive.

Guy derricks pick up the broken pieces placing them on flat cars which are taken to the wharves. Barges tow the stone to the place of construction.

Stone after stone is dropped overboard from the barge and goes out of sight. Sometimes it is weeks and months before the stones begin to show at the top of the water. But the work keeps on until a fence of stone is built.

When the sufficient height is reached, stones that weigh from 15 to 20 tons each are brought from the quarries and placed on top as capping stones. After four or five years work the contractor gets a semblance of an artificial harbor enclosing 300 to 400 acres of water.

There is another style of breakwater, known as jetties and approved for shallow water. To build these jetties the contractor drives piles, placing between them a mat of brush upon which is placed stone to prevent its being washed away, and the brush mat being used to prevent the stone from sinking into the sand.

The riprap breakwater, which is the kind being built on the Massachusetts coast, is said to be the most effective. The government points with pride to the breakwaters built at Point Judith, R. I., and the Delaware breakwater near Lewes, Del., which have stood heavy seas for 10 years.

In Europe building breakwaters is an expensive project, but army engineers and American contractors say the same results are received from riprap stone structures. The European method is to set on a foundation stone cut specially for the purpose. The American breakwater answers the same purpose.

SEEKS TO AMEND FISHERIES RULES

OTTAWA, Ont.—Dr. David Starr Jordan arrived here yesterday to seek a modification in two important particulars of the international fisheries regulations which were drawn up last year but not promulgated.

Mr. Jordan says that President Taft desired him to seek removal of what are considered injustices to the fisheries interests in Saginaw bay, Lake Huron and to small fishing interests in Lake Erie.

With the hope of accomplishing this before the promulgation of the regulations, Dr. Jordan is conferring with Prof. E. E. Prince, who represents Canada. The fishing industry in Saginaw bay requires the use of pound nets, which fact was not fully appreciated during the inquiry preceding the drafting of the regulations.

Large fisheries companies are found to be favored at the expense of small ones through the regulations requiring the use of expensive nets in Lake Erie.

Although in the state of Washington a movement is afoot to declare the regulations unconstitutional, the United States government, it is understood, does not expect the contention to prevail.

SOUTHERN INSURANCE MEN MEET.

ATLANTA, Ga.—In order to form a southern conference of insurance companies, more than three score of the leading insurance men of the southern states are here for a two-day convention. They propose filing the same plan in the South that the Detroit conference did in the North.

pose. The breakwater at Dover, Eng., cost $28,000,000, while the Point Judith breakwater, which covers approximately the same area cost $3,000,000.

While Europe's expensive breakwaters are resented by American engineers, those same engineers uphold that country for the progress made in taking advantage of establishing harbors of refuge and keeping them in first class repair. There is criticism from engineers, contractors and mariners that the American Congress does not give this question more attention.

Breakwaters to save harbors from erosion are hobbies of congressmen it is said, but to build harbors of refuge for mariners, is another thing.

DESIGNS OF THREE NEW MONUMENTS GIVEN APPROVAL

WASHINGTON—The design and location of three more monuments dedicated to the memory of heroes of American history which will adorn the national capital—Commodore John Barry, John Paul Jones and Christopher Columbus—were approved by congressional commissions Thursday.

The design of Sculptor John J. Bayle of New York for a statue of Commodore John Barry was accepted. This statue will be erected in Franklin park, and one of the conditions imposed by the fine arts commission is that it shall be similar in type to the Rochambeau statue in Lafayette park.

The statue of John Paul Jones, designed by Charles H. Niehaus of New York, will stand in Potomac park.

A Christopher Columbus fountain, the general scheme for which was designed by Burnham & Co. of Chicago, and the sculptural parts, including a life-sized statue of Columbus, by Carado Taft of Chicago, a cousin of the President, was approved.

The fountain will be erected on the plaza in front of the Union station.

PORT STANLEY SHIPYARD.

ST. THOMAS, Ont.—A ship-building industry is to be located at Port Stanley. F. D. Doty & Sons of Goderich have leased property on the west side of Main street, Port Stanley, and the building of slips, erections of workshops, etc., will be commenced at once. The firm have already drawn contracts for the tug to be built in the yard.

AMERICAN ACADEMY SPEAKERS DISCUSS CURRENCY REFORM

Monetary Commission Members and Government Experts Agree on Need of Revising Bank System.

DEFECTS INDICATED

PHILADELPHIA—Currency reform was the topic of addresses by four men who are closely identified with governmental finance at a special session here Thursday evening of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

The speakers were Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island, chairman of the national monetary commission, Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, member of the same commission, A. Platt Andrew, assistant secretary of the treasury, and George E. Roberts, director of the mint.

Senator Aldrich declared that in his opinion the currency problem would be just itself if the banking system were reformed.

He said that many methods prescribed by law for the management and control of national banks have become obsolete, and that the national government, having assumed control of the organization of credit, is manifestly obligated to enter at the earliest possible moment upon such a revision of our national banking legislation as will make our methods and practices more responsive to the demands of modern business life.

Continuing, Senator Aldrich said:

"The structural weakness and practical defects of our national banking system are shown by the relative growth of national banks and state banks and trust companies in the past 25 years."

"It is manifest that the state banks and trust companies are better organized to respond in competition to the business demands of the communities in which they are located."

"If we are to give the banks of the country and of every section an opportunity which can only be afforded by the general government for association and cooperation, the result must be of such a nature as will be mutually beneficial to all banks and clearly in the interests of the people of the country as a whole."

Senator Burton said the need for currency reform did not arise from any insufficiency in the general amount. With the exception of France, the per capita circulation in the United States is larger than in any other of the great commercial countries.

The defects of our currency system, he said, were due to the retention of the old method, discarded by so many countries, of maintaining a government currency.

Director Roberts of the mint said in part:

"We have about $16,000,000,000 of bank deposits in the United States, and only about $3,000,000,000 of money in the country all told, in the banks and out. The supply of money adjusts itself to the usual and ordinary method of making settlements through the banks and clearing houses."

"And this elimination of cash is all right; this system of clearings is sound, economical and permanent; but it never will be secure until it is backed up by machinery by which the banks on the basis of good assets can be supplied with lawful money to meet any demands that may come upon them."

"When everybody knows that such machinery exists we will be free from panics, as they are in all other countries where such machinery exists."

HOME IS GIVEN WORKING WOMEN

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—While women of the executive board of the Young Women's Christian Association were discussing ways of paying off the indebtedness of their building in South Hill street a messenger arrived with a letter from former United States Senator W. A. Clark of Montana in which he announced he had purchased a site for an institution to be known as the Mary Andrews Clark home, which he purposes to build and equip as a gift to the association at a cost of $150,000.

BIG FISH CATCH AT LUNenburg

HALIFAX, N. S.—With fish $5 a quintal, $1 higher than at this time last year, and a record catch at Lunenburg, this is a year of the greatest prosperity.

In 1900 there were 93 fishing vessels sailing out of Lunenburg, with a total catch of 173,582 quintals of codfish, averaging 1866 quintals a vessel. This year there were 102 vessels, with a total catch of 209,205 quintals, averaging 2051 quintals a vessel.

PLAN BIG WATER POWER PROJECT

PLACERVILLE, Cal.—What will probably result in one of the greatest power and irrigation projects in the state of California was the filing here by the Loon Lake Water & Power Company of 460,000 miners' inches of water at the office of the county recorder.

It is without doubt the largest filing of water appropriations in the state. There were eight appropriations of the water of the Little South Fork of the Rubicon, of Gerle creek and Pilot creek, all in the northern part of this county, and these filings are part of the inauguration of an immense power and irrigation project.

LOUISIANA SHOWS 274,763 INCREASE

WASHINGTON—The population of Louisiana is 1,656,388, an increase of 274,768, or 19.9 per cent over 1,381,625 in 1900. The increase from 1890 to 1900 was 263,038, or 24.5 per cent.

The population of Spokane is 104,402. This is an increase of 67,554, or 183.3 per cent over 36,843 in 1900.

The population of Bismarck, N. D., is 5443, compared with 3319 in 1900.

Revised statistics of the population of Tampa, Fla., show its population to be 37,783, an increase of 21,943, or 138.5 per cent over 15,839 in 1900. A previous announcement gave the 1910 census as 38,524.

FASHIONS AND THE HOUSEHOLD

LUXURIOUS EVENING WRAPS

Materials employed are rich and voluminous.

EVENING wraps of all kinds are as ample in width as gowns are scant. Wonderful blendings of rich materials in garments fashioned in classic lines characterize the luxurious outer coverings of extravagant price. Furs, exquisite laces, silk velvets and brocades combine in furnishing materials suitable for the season's demands. Everything is costly and everything is regal in appearance. The richest velvets and brocades, together with filiciest gauzes, often unite in a single garment. Styles are so enveloping that often the wraps seem to be twice too large for the wearers, but still they fall in almost straight lines, as fashion decrees. The wide bands of fur or heavy broad trimming at the hems of such coats bring them into the desired lines.

For wear in the limousine when short distances are covered gauze and mossa-line wraps swathed in elegant furs flourish. White fox is by far the most in evidence in this particular capacity. Many of the handsomest evening wraps are fashioned of gorgeous old brocades or tapestries veiled with sheer gauze in a dull tone. More or less gold galloon and metallic embroidery is seen on elaborate garments of this character. Gold bands finish the inside where the lining meets the outer material, and often the seams are finished with gold cord or flat braid.

Among the handsomest wraps are many in vivid colors. Bright green with gold, sapphire blue with silver and burnt orange or flame color with bronze are favored colors and combinations of the present season. When furs are employed with the colors usually sable is seen with green, white fox with blue and brown marten or skunk with orange. Lovely garments in oriental styles are rich in colored embroidery and jeweled buttons. A stunning one in leaf green satin de chine was embroidered in different shades of green and soft tones of pink. The lining was moss green satin. The wide, full sleeves were of dolman sort that formed a baglike drapery at the sides. The neck was becomingly treated with a wide collar of natural racoon and a huge muff of the same fur accompanied the outfit.

The Egyptian influence, that has been stronger than usual this season, was boldly reflected in a striking wrap worn at the horse show. The material was brick-red changeable velvet, and the exquisitely done embroidery depicted many characters familiar to students of Egyptian art and colors. These bands of embroidery seemed to have been made expressly for the garment they decorated; they were shaped to form points which extended well up the seams of the coat, and the panels gathered perfectly into each hollowed place. The unique color effect that placed the garment above the average was the group of bluish-green scarabs covering the flat clasp that closed the full fronts.

One of the richest velvet wraps seen this season was of silver gray velvet shot with pink and trimmed with a wide band of chinchilla fur at the bottom. The garment was cut very ample in width and was shirred into a deep band of silver net elaborately embroidered with an oriental design. The fur appeared directly below this work. The sleeves were of wide, full bag style shirred into a narrow band of the embroidery and finished at the band with a chinchilla cuff. The wide sailor collar of embroidery was edged with fur to correspond with the hem and sleeves.

Many of the soft velvets used for evening wraps are decorated over their entire surface with metallic figures of one kind or another. Metallic bands of the same metal are employed for trimming. —Chicago Record-Herald.

DAINTY DRESS

PROPER CARE OF CLOTHES A BIG ECONOMY

THE care we take of our clothes is largely a thing of habit. An important requirement is to invest in a complete outfit of hangers, and still more essential is a conscientious use of them. Gowns, coats and overcoats should hang every minute they are not in use, as this will prevent the clothes from being mused and help to hold any pressing they may have received.

Faithful brushing of clothes about to be worn will help to retain freshness of appearance, but the brushing, however, should not be so strenuous as to be a strain upon the goods. Spots and stains must be removed immediately.

During seasons when clothes are not used they should be hung wrapped in a sheet, as the covering will ward off dust and prevent fading.

A safe rule to follow in preserving one's wardrobe is to distribute the wear and tear equally among the different garments. Don't wear one outfit regularly, but vary the costume freely and this will not only consistently distribute the wear, but will also lend a snap to the daily get-up from a standpoint of change.

The woman who has learned the secret of the proper care of the wardrobe has mastered one of economy's greatest laws and observes one of the strongest requisites in presenting a smart appearance.

VERY HANDY COMPANY CLOSET

Provident housewife keeps a stock of goodies.

THERE is nothing that lends a real zest to hospitality like the feeling that the menu for the coming meal is everything it should be. That is why the "company closet" is such a boon to the housewife. A young Philadelphia matron says:

"I keep mostly things to make sandwiches out of if a friend comes in for tea. There are many kinds of canned meats, chicken, wild duck, grouse, partridge and quail patties, lobster, salmon, sardines, shrimps and little neck clams. These vary in price from 15 to 50 cents and are always ready at a moment's notice to put between thin slices of bread and make delicious sandwiches.

"Then I keep on one shelf several cans of soup and chowder and all I have to do is to heat and serve them. It is astonishing how many kinds of canned soups there are and many can be flavored with celery salt, herbs and thickened with rice and macaroni.

"Besides these I have ham loaf, Hamburg steak, chicken loaf, boneless chicken and turkey, lamb tongue, sausage, potted corned beef and frankfurters. I did not know there were so many kinds of meats until I started my closet. These are 25 to 30 cents a can and can be used cold or heated.

"Of course I have shelves with jellies and preserved fruits, orange marmalade, bar le due jelly, guava, canned pineapple, cherries, peaches, blueberries and many other fruits; so I am prepared in the matter of sauces.

"Thus I am provided with a soup course, a sandwich or meat course and a dessert for unexpected guests." —Philadelphia Times.

POTATOES IN FIFTY-TWO WAYS

Not all given here but several by Marion Harland.

A COOK book that lies open at my side, writes Marion Harland in the Chicago Record-Herald, tells the wondering reader of 52 ways of cooking Irish (white) potatoes. One for each week in the year.

When baked quickly and served as soon as it is done; then kneaded between fingers protected from the heat of the napkin until it is mealy to the heart; cracked open and the contents gouged out into a snowy heap upon a hot plate, salted and buttered to taste, a potato is at its very best estate—at least to my fancy.

Some day bake potatoes half an hour before luncheon is served; cut a cap from the top of each; turn out the inside and work up into a light cream with butter, a dash of cream and a little grated cheese. Fill the skins with the mixture, set back in the oven and brown lightly and swiftly.

Another day scallop them. Pare away the skins closely, recollecting that the mealiest portions are nearest the skin; slice thin and leave in cold water for an hour. Wipe them and arrange in a pudding dish. Season each layer and dot with butter. When all are in pour in half a cupful of cold water—not more—strew fine crumbs upon the top and cover to keep in the steam. Bake tender; lift the cover and brown lightly.

Upon yet a third day pare and cut into cubes; leave in cold water for an hour to draw out the earthy taste. Drain and put into the saucepan with a cupful of water to prevent scorching. Cover and stew tender. Have ready in another saucepan a cupful of hot milk, thickened slightly with a roux of butter and flour. Pour off the water in which the potatoes were cooked and substitute the hot, thickened milk. Bring to a gentle boil, stir in a tablespoonful of finely minced parsley, boil up and serve.

A simpler method, yet a good way of preparing the familiar element, is to peel and boil quickly in plenty of hot water with a little salt; drain and serve in hot deep dish and pour over it a great spoonful of butter in which one of minced parsley has been cooked for one minute. If the potatoes are mealy, the result will be highly approved. You may if you like, mix a teaspoonful of onion juice with the butter and parsley sauce.

Sweet potatoes are popular, yet it is amazing to note how few ways of preparing them for the table are practised even in the regions where they grow like weeds for luxuriance. In the South they are baked in their skins and sent to the table au naturel, or skinned after they are baked. In the North they are boiled into insipidity.

Vary the menu by trying two or three of my methods with potatoes:

1. Boil 10 minutes in their jackets; peel while hot and lay in the baking pan; butter generously and brown quickly. They make a delightful garnish for roast beef, or they may be served alone.

2. Boil in the skins and strip these off at once. While they are still smoking hot mash with the back of a silver spoon and beat to a smooth paste with butter and cream. Add a beaten egg; make into balls or into croquettes; set on the ice or in a very cold place for some hours to stiffen, and fry rapidly in hot lard or drippings. Drain off every drop of grease and send to table hot.

3. Parboil for 10 minutes; peel at once; cut across into slices a quarter of an inch thick; arrange in layers in a baked dish, seasoning with salt and a little pepper; strew a teaspoonful of sugar over each layer and dot with butter. When the last layer is in and seasoned, cover with fine crumbs; dot with butter and pour a half-cupful of water carefully around the side, not to disturb the crumbs and to prevent burning. Cover closely and bake half an hour. Uncover and brown.

Sweet potato pudding is good enough to be better known. Parboil and let the potatoes get perfectly cold before you grate them. Cream together two tablespoonfuls of butter and one half cupful of sugar. Beat three eggs light, yolks and whites separately. Stir the beaten yolks into the creamed butter and sugar; season with cinnamon, mace and nutmeg and the juice and half the grated rind of a lemon. Now stir in the grated potato, gradually, with long, upward strokes, until all is in and the mixture light. Next put in a cup of milk, mix well and fold in the whites. This is a delicious pudding. It should be eaten cold. If you like, you make bake the mixture in open pie crusts.

HOME HELPS

CUT sheets of tinfoil and place under the flower vase doilies and you will have no trouble with any dampness affecting the best polished furniture.

Put a good sized lump of salt into a cup of vinegar and put into the vessel that is discolored and let it stand for half a day. Wash well with warm water and soap and sediment will come off easily.

If your furniture has grown dull and streaked, try rubbing up with a flannel dipped in equal parts of turpentine and cold oil. It polishes quickly and much more cheaply than expensive polishes.

If the housewife who makes bread will beat it well with a large spoon before she puts her hands in it she will find that her bread will be light and wholesome.

To restore the fragrance of baskets made from sweet-scented grass, after they have apparently lost it, plunge them into boiling water, removing them almost instantly.

A few drops of lemon squeezed into the water will make the darkest looking potato bowl white.

If mixed with milk instead of water mustard will not get dry, but will keep nice and fresh until it is all used up.

If new enamel saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water, allowed to come to the boil, and then cool, they will be found to last much longer before either cracking or burning.

Tea Gowns

A lovely little tea gown which contains an idea for the woman with a similar garment to make over is of pale turquoise satin, draped in empire style, and veiled with gray crepe de chine, hemmed with a finger's width of gray squirrel fur. The veiling is held in place over the underbody by a fleur-de-lis of seed pearls at the waist.

Clears the Air

When anything on a cooking range boils over, burns and smokes, open all the kitchen windows and lift one plate from the range to allow the smoke to be drawn up the chimney. If this doesn't destroy the odor, put a little vinegar on to boil, which dissolves unpleasant smells.

To Keep Newspapers

By 10-cent bread toaster, take a yard of ribbon and tie the top corner of each side about half closed, take one handle to hang it up, bend the other handle back and tie a bow on it; when hanging, put the papers between; you will find it will hold quite a lot; when one is needed, just pull it from the side.

Step-Saver

One way to save steps is to nail a strip of varnished wood to the wall above the gas stove. Screw in a row of brass hooks and use them for iron spoons, strainers, broilers, small spiders and any utensil that goes direct from hook to stove.

TRIED RECIPES

MEAT LOAF.
CHOP together 1½ cups fresh beef that has a little fat and one medium sized onion. Add 1½ level teaspoons salt, a little pepper, a dash of cayenne, three fourths cup bread crumbs soaked in three fourths cup of milk, one beaten egg. Bake 30 to 50 minutes.

GRIDDLE CAKES.
Take three and one half cupfuls of buttermilk, two tablespoonfuls of cream or melted butter, one teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of baking powder, sifted in four cupfuls of flour; two beaten eggs, and lastly add one level teaspoonful of soda, dissolved in a little hot water. Bake on a hot griddle. Have the batter thick enough so it will not run.

TO KEEP CUT HAM.
In providing for a small family, as a rule, one wishes to have fried ham often, and the cut ham soon deteriorates in flavor. To keep it as good as when first cut, slice as much as desired and pack down in a stone jar. Melt some pure lard, and pour over the slices, covering deep enough to exclude all air. Take out and fry as needed, and the last cut will be found as delicious as the first.

MOCK CHERRY PIE.
Two cups of cranberries, one cup of raisins, seedless, one-half cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, one cup of water, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Split the cranberries and wash through a colander until all the seeds are removed. Pick over the raisins, wash and let drain until dry. Mix together the flour and sugar. Then add the fruit and water. Just before putting into the crusts add the vanilla. Bake between two crusts for 45 minutes in a moderate oven. This amount makes two good-sized pies. They are rich and keep moist.

JAM CAKE.
Two cupfuls sugar, one cupful butter, six eggs (two whites reserved for icing), two scant teaspoonfuls soda in six tablespoonfuls sour milk; three cupfuls of flour; one level teaspoonful cinnamon, one teaspoonful and 1½ cupful jam.

Ruffles on Skirts

The prevalence of the tunic and the overskirt has given rise to a modification of these in the shape of circular ruffles, extending from waist to ankles. This is quite in the style of several years back, but somehow combines fluffiness with simplicity, and maintains the tight and narrow skirt announced for this winter. Usually five ruffles are used on a skirt; sometimes these are plain, again they are edged or veiled with chiffon or tulle. This style is becoming to every one but the short, stout woman.

To Clean Steel

Emery powder and oil made into a paste is an excellent mixture to clean steel. Rub on well and polish, after which rub with an oiled rag and then polish up again with a clean duster.

Clogged Gas Burners

Gas burners, like other things, are likely to get dirty. Often there is quite a little collection of rubbish on them and if this is cleared away the improvement in the light is noticeable.

Paris Coiffures

A recent note in Paris hair dressings is the employment of Persian or silk fabrics from which gowns, waists, turbans or other millinery are made as a sort of bandeau or intertwining for the coiffure.

To Keep Material White

Dresses and other articles made of delicate white material often become yellow with lying. To prevent this, take a good sized pillow case and blue it thoroughly. In this place the dress and baste or pin the open end of the case, so as to keep out all dust and air. When you open the blue bag your dress will be white, without resorting to the ruinous "tub" or dry cleaning process.

Ribbons for lingerie should be washed in cold water and wrapped around a bottle. When dry the ribbon will be like new.

SHIPPING NEWS

Two shipments of halibut arrived at T wharf today on the schooners Elsie and Conqueror, the former bringing 1000 pounds, and the latter only 200.

Captain Clark sailed the five-masted schooner Fuller Palmer into Vineyard Haven Thursday evening without a rudder-head. The boat was heavily laden with coal and was worked in under its own sail. She is bound from Baltimore for Portland, and a tug will tow her to Portland.

Practically all the cereal in the B. & A. elevator at East Boston will be taken up when the Leyland line steamer Columbian, Captain McDonald, finishes loading. She will sail from here for London tomorrow with 34,000 bushels of wheat, 500 tons of flour, 2000 tons of provisions, 620 head of cattle, and 100 tons of lumber. The grain loaded into the Saxonia, which sailed early today, made a large inroad into the supply and probably the Columbian will finish it.

Most vessels berthing at T wharf today proved to be "off shore" boats with good-sized catches. Arrivals were: The Elsie 50,000 pounds, Conqueror 35,000, Volant 17,000, W. H. Rider 16,000, Marguerite Haskins 12,000, Appomattox 10,000, Mabel Leavitt 7000, Emily Conroy 6500, London Eagle 4000, Florida 3000, Eddie Minot 1900, On Time 1500, Wodan 700, and the Sylvester 100.

Demand for fish was less at T wharf today, and the arrival of more off shore boats lowered the prices, dealers paying per hundredweight as follows: Steak cod $6.50 to $7.25, market cod $3.75 to $4.75, haddock $4.25 to $4.75, pollock $3.25 to $3.50, large hake $5, medium hake $4, and cusk $3.25.

During the past week 950,000 pounds of groundfish was brought to T wharf by 11 arrivals, while for the corresponding week last year 134 vessels brought in 1,501,700 pounds.

Among the foreign steamers expected to reach port tomorrow are the Wilson liner Toronto, Captain Young, from Hull, Eng., and the British steamer Brika, Captain Cooper, from Huelva, Spain, with iron pyrites.

Sailing on her last trip from Boston this season, the Allan liner Pretorian, Capt. Blanchard Henry, left Mystic wharf, Charlestown, today for Moville and Glasgow, with 30 cabin and 75 steerage passengers. Her cargo included 250 head of cattle for Scotland, 24,000 bushels of wheat, 4000 barrels of apples, and large consignments of flour, provisions and steel. The Pretorian will be transferred to the St. Lawrence service.

A number of Boston-bound schooners that are several days overdue at this port are waiting outside Cape Cod today. They left Vineyard Haven Thursday, but the unfavorable conditions out there prevented them from entering the bay. Several sailing craft took advantage of the breeze and left port for the fishing grounds and other destinations.

MARINE NOTES.

NORFOLK, Va. — The five-masted schooner Henry O. Barrett, 1564 tons, Captain Wyman, from Bangor and Bath, Me., to Hampton roads, is aground on the Isaacs or Nautical shoals, just north of Cape Charles on the Virginia coast. The weather is good and the wrecking tugs have gone to her assistance.
NEW LONDON, Conn. — The barge Stella O'Callahan, owned by the New England Navigation Company and loaded with 450 tons of coal, was rammed by a scow in the harbor Thursday and sank in 30 feet.

BETTER RETURNS THAN INDICATED

On its face the share profits disclosed by Massachusetts Electric Companies in the annual report for the year ended Sept. 30 last make poor comparison with the previous year. After having earned 5.02 per cent on its $20,557,400 preferred in the 1909 year it is a trifle disappointing to figure out share earnings for the late year of but 4.07 per cent.

But Massachusetts Electric has a habit of showing its worst side in public and there are some redeeming features to the 1910 earnings, if one has the patience to dig below the surface.

In the 1909 year, the operating companies charged against earnings for injuries, reconstruction, replacement, depreciation and kindred items a total of but $19,855. This year for similar items a total of but $27,195 was charged against earnings. Here is an increase of $152,339, all of which was practically voluntary and made because the earnings permitted it. The operating companies have now placed themselves in such position that only 11 months of reconstruction is still to be charged off. For years from two to three years of reconstruction had been carried in suspense.

It is a fair claim that in the late year the Massachusetts Electric earned 5.38 per cent on its stock, but elected to use over 1 1/2 per cent of this amount in adjusting certain matters of reconstruction and discount on notes sold to bankers.

LOWER PRICES INDUCE BUYING

It is understood that the sales of iron by the Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Company during November were larger than for any previous month for some time. It is admitted, however, that it was necessary to make concessions from the prices at which the company had held its product in order to secure most of the orders filled during last month. The sales for that period were in the neighborhood of 38,000 tons. It is understood that the company still has on its yards in excess of 70,000 tons. Those best informed regarding the southern iron situation do not look for any material increase in the demand in the immediate future.

The directors of the Sloss-Sheffield company will meet shortly and formally order the payment of the regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/2 per cent on the preferred stock, which is declared in a lump sum at the beginning of each fiscal year.

Editorial Comment

THE editorial comments today deal with President Taft's second annual message to Congress.

SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN—The message breathes a progressive spirit throughout. Yet it is the most conservative message we have had from the White House in at least six years.

NEW HAVEN (Conn.) TIMES-LEADER—It is the longest message ever written—too long to be generally read—too long for any use. Why is it that our Presidents cannot hold down what they have to say or give out their recommendations in instalments?

NEW YORK POST—Mr. Taft has written a tedious judicial review. There are excellent positions taken in it, and many sound principles are laid down; but it is not the production of a born leader, scanning the political field and seeing where broken ranks can be formed again and fresh heart put into discouraged men. Republicans were looking to the President to give them an inspiring ode in time of hesitation. Instead, they get a large wet blanket.

NEW YORK SUN—President Taft's second annual message discusses a multitude of things and is by many thousands of words unnecessarily long. The superfluity, however, is of detail, not of feverish verbiage.

PHILADELPHIA TIMES—It is a remarkably complete and satisfying view of the federal business establishment which President Taft gives to the country in his message to Congress. There is no allusion to the results of the election, nor apparent concession that the function of the executive or his relation to the business of governing has been changed or redirected as a result of the national expression in November.

NEW YORK PRESS—President Taft's failure, in his long message to Congress, to take a strong stand, or in some instances any stand at all, upon some of the vital questions of the day is due, no doubt to his belief that, in any event, very little could be expected from the closing weeks of a Republican House which is to be followed by a Democratic House within three months.

NEW YORK AMERICAN—The tone of the President's message is admirable. It deals lucidly and frankly with every subject considered, and contains no dark corners or subtleties. It is as straightforward as the character of the man that wrote it. Without bluster or timidity it sets forth the state of the country and rallies the confidence of the people.

SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) UNION—There is little in the message that could tend to aggravate factional feeling in the majority party in Congress, and, on the other hand, the document is hardly one to arouse the majority to a policy of prompt and decisive action upon the most prominent issues of the hour.

Boston, Mass. November 18, '10.

The Christian Science Publishing Society,

Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:—

We received recently a valuable inquiry from Yokohama, Japan, one from Melbourne, Australia and a splendid order from Honolulu, T.H., all of which we traced directly to our "MONITOR" advertising.

For ten years, we have been regular and large advertisers in all trade papers devoted to the stone industry, besides mailing to the stone trade on the 1st of each month a handsome calendar with letter enclosed and on the 15th a house organ named "Harrison's Magazine." We have also used other valuable and expensive methods to obtain trade.

We think it is but fair to you to acknowledge what your daily paper, which is not in any way devoted to our line of business, is doing for us and can do for others who are seeking new channels for their business.

Sincerely yours,

HARRISON SUPPLY COMPANY,

What the Students Are Doing

Girls of Smith College Practise Snow Walking in Picturesque Costumes

STUDENTS ON "SHOES."

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—With the coming of the snow, Smith college girls have brought out their snow-shoes. The storm has provided an excellent opportunity for the use of the shoes.

With the general snow-shoe costume goes usually a sweater or a bulky Canadian coat, red or in striped patterns, and some kind of little cap, woolly or otherwise.

All stages of snow-shoeing may be seen, from the stumbling beginner's laborious scurrying to the experienced nonchalance of the girl who has done it for a whole week.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA.

MINNEAPOLIS—The Forestry Club of the university will build a clubhouse in the spring. The following are club officers: President, C. L. Hamilton; secretary, Arthur Hodgman; treasurer, John A. Stevenson. On the board of directors are Julius Hoffman and C. L. Hamilton (seniors), Arthur Hodgman and C. Conzitt (juniors) and Prof. E. G. Cheney and Prof. J. T. Stewart (faculty).

The Faculty Club has decided to bar the sale of liquors in its clubhouse, which will be opened this year.

The date of the junior ball has been set for Feb. 2.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN.

MADISON, Wis.—A collection of newspapers and periodicals published in the Philippine islands has been presented to the newspaper laboratory of the course in journalism at the University of Wisconsin by James A. Robertson of the Government Library at Manila. The collection includes papers printed in Spanish and native dialects.

The new "Ad" club of the university is arranging a series of lectures during the winter and spring by newspaper men and advertising managers.

SIMMONS COLLEGE.

Following are the chairmen of committees, consisting of 12 to 14 girls each, appointed to raise money for the junior class treasury: Elsie E. Converse, West Brookfield; Susan A. Lyle, Gloucester; Glenna M. True, Manchester, N. H.; Carolyn E. Aldrich, Concord, N. H.; Jennie P. Clement, Lowell; Ellen C. Wood, Cambridge.

The Student Guild gave a tea Thursday afternoon in the living room of South hall, 321 Brookline avenue.

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY.

COLUMBUS, O.—For the first time, the University Calendar will be issued this year under the auspices of the Ohio Union. The calendar will consist of five sheets printed from four-color plates, showing scenes about the campus. Mr. Evans is the artist.

The total enrollment in the university this fall, according to official figures just announced, is 3181 in all the colleges, a gain of 169 over last year.

UNION COLLEGE.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Union College student body has passed a motion picture requiring all student publications to be supervised by a literary board composed of the president of the college, the dean and one other faculty member, the editor-in-chief of each publication, the president of the Press Club and one member elected by the senior class.

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Alumni directory of the University of Chicago contains the names and addresses of 5695 graduates. It includes all degrees granted by the old University of Chicago, beginning in 1861, up to the time that it closed its doors in 1886, and of the new university from 1893 down to July 1, 1910. The record shows that 580 degrees of doctor of philosophy have been granted by the university since 1892.

As a result of the final contests in debating, the following six students have been chosen to represent the University of Chicago in the annual debates against the University of Michigan and Northwestern University: Lew M. McDonald, Chicago; Albert F. Mecklenburger, Okolona, Miss.; Paul M. O'Dea, Springfield, Mo.; Merrill I. Schnebly, Peoria, Ill.; Arthur P. Scott, Evanston, Ill., and Edward E. Jennings, Wyncota, Wis.

The alternates will be Arnold R. Baar, Chicago, and LeRoy D. Sargent, Grandville, O.

YALE UNIVERSITY.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—The new graduate directory of Yale University shows a total of 15,958.

Included in the table of distribution by occupation of graduates are the following:

Agriculture 310, art 212, education 1737, engineering 1536, finance 1509, government 192, law 8690, literature 404, manufacturing 1572, mercantile 1217, ministry 1190, transportation 199.

CHINESE JOINS FACULTY.

MADISON, Wis.—Chu-tung Tsai of Canton, China, a graduate student in the University of Wisconsin, has just been appointed to an assistantship in the political science department of the institution. Mr. Tsai took his bachelor's degree from Wisconsin in 1909.

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE.

PULLMAN, Wash.—A new literary society has been organized at the Washington State College, under the leadership of Dr. F. A. Golder, of the department of economics and history.

The new club will be open to all collegiate students, and will be for the purpose of taking up and discussing current events contained in the daily newspapers.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO.

MOSCOW, Idaho—Prof. L. C. Aicher, graduate of Kansas State Agricultural College and an expert in farm machinery, has taken charge of the new work in farm engineering established in connection with the University of Idaho.

There will be three different courses offered—elementary farm machinery, advanced farm machinery and farm motors and farm buildings.

SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY.

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The junior prom at Syracuse will be held next Thursday in the gymnasium. The event is run by the Monx Head, a junior society. The presentation by the Boars Head, of the first play written by a Syracuse graduate will also be a feature of junior week.

On Saturday Syracuse will meet Columbia in a debating contest in John Crouse College here. Victor V. Sawyer '11, Alvah T. Otis '11 and Carleton R. Hutchings '11, with Thomas G. Coffee '11 as alternate, represent Syracuse. Sherman L. Kennedy '10 has prepared the team.

WESTERN RESERVE UNIVERSITY.

CLEVELAND, O.—The students, faculty, and alumni of Western Reserve University will hold a dinner Dec. 20 when covers will be laid for 1000. Seats will be sold in the gallery.

President Charles F. Thwing will speak, besides many prominent alumni.

This will be the largest banquet ever held at the university, as this is the first time that the alumni and all the departments of the university have had an annual banquet together.

The different departments of the university are scattered about the city and an annual banquet of this sort will bring the students together, and promote the university spirit.

WISCONSIN WOMEN'S SOCIETIES.

MADISON, Wis.—There are 12 organizations devoted solely to women's interests at the University of Wisconsin, according to figures compiled for the Self Government Association of the institution.

SALEM'S MARITIME FAME WON BY DRIED COD, SAYS HISTORIAN

James S. Newhall, in Paper
Read Before Lynn Society,
Finds Good Grounds for Effigy in State House.

SEA TRADE IN 1634

LYNN, Mass.—"Old Time Salem Sea Captains" was the title of a paper read by James Silver Newhall before the Lynn Historical Society Thursday evening. Mr. Newhall, who is a descendant of some of the oldest shipping families in Salem, said in part:

"By 1634, while Plymouth was still a primitive settlement, Salem had a flourishing commerce with the colonies and Leeward islands.

"Between 1640 and 1650, her vessels made voyages not only to England but to the West Indies and Bermuda. As the trade was mainly the product of the fisheries, it is true that dried codfish gave Salem her first maritime importance, as well as every seaboar town and city of New England. It is not without reason that an effigy of a codfish is hanging in the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

"The danger to which these early navigators were exposed can hardly be realized, as with no correct charts and with the rudest mathematical instruments, they had no means of fixing their exact location at sea.

"At the beginning of the American revolution, Richard Derby had seven 'sail of vessels' in trade with the West Indies. His trade and that of Salem were ruined by the war.

"During this contest, there were equipped and sent out from Salem 158 privateers manned by several thousand gallant sailors from Salem. They mounted more than 2000 guns, each vessel carrying from 12 to 14 each.

"The number of prizes taken by Salem armed vessels during the revolution was about 445; about 54 of her privateers were captured. The daring deeds performed by the officers and men of these vessels deserve more notice than history has given them.

"The enumeration of the cargoes that the ships brought from over the seas stirs the imagination. Rare porcelains, silks and nankeens, tea, gum, copal and ivory, indigo, sugar, coffee, pepper, palm oil, wines, prunes, raisins, almonds, nutmegs, mace and cinnamon. Samuel Peys, the great diarist, once descended into the hold of an 'India ship' and described it as follows: 'The greatest wealth lying in confusion that a man can see in the world. Pepper scattered through every chink, you trod upon it; and in cloves and nutmegs I walked above the knees.' And Bret Harte writes of the old ships that they were

"Laden with odorous gums and spice, India cotton and India rice, And the richest silks of far Cathay."

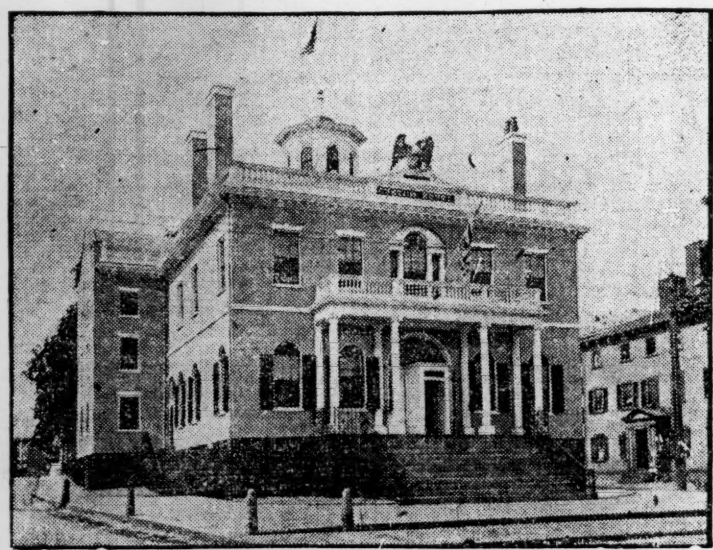

"In 1797 the ship America, owned by Mr. Derby brought over the first elephant ever seen in the United States.

"Captain Jonathan Carnes in 1793, while at Benecolen learned that pepper grew wild on the northwest coast of Sumatra. On returning home he imparted his discovery to Jonathan Pelee, a prominent merchant, who immediately built a schooner suited for this trade and put Captain Carnes in command. The vessel was named the Rajah and sailed in 1795, her destination being kept a profound secret. Eighteen months passed before she returned to Salem with a cargo of pepper in bulk, the first ever imported into this country from Sumatra, which was sold at a profit of 700 per cent. Captain Carnes in 1799 presented some curiosities from foreign shores to the East India Marine Society which led to the establishment of the museum of that society.

"Other noted captains were Elias Derby, son of Richard Derby; Enos Briggs, the shipbuilder, Jeremiah Page, William Gray, Joseph Peabody, John Bertram, George Cabot, James Silver, William Mifflord, John Whidden and George Croswind.

"As Salem was one of the great distributing centers for foreign merchandise, the millions of pounds of tea, indigo, pepper, sugar, Sassafras, and the last commodity arriving in one year, without taking into account the other rich freight, we can imagine the bustle and activity at the wharves and adjacent streets in loading the drays and wagons, which were the only means of transportation, as railroads were then unknown. There was collected at the port of Salem from 1789 through this period $25,000,000 on imports."

SALEM'S ANCIENT CUSTOM HOUSE FOR YEARS THE RENDEZVOUS OF NEW ENGLAND SEA CAPTAINS

FEDERAL BUILDING AT SALEM, MASS.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

By far the most important transaction in local real estate yet made this week is the signing of agreements for the sale of the Hotel Langham, a six-story marble building numbered 1681 to 1713 Washington and extending from Worcester to West Springfield streets, in the South End. George H. Page and William H. Phinney, its present lessees, who have already commenced work upon extensive improvements in the structure, will take title. The property is taxed on a valuation of $275,000, of which $93,700 is the rating on the 22, 037 feet of land. John P. Leahy, trustee of the Grace estate, gives the title.

Final papers transferring to the city of Boston the title to the property on Massachusetts and Harrison avenues and Northampton street, South end, taken recently for a site for the addition to the City Hospital, have been recorded at the Suffolk registry of deeds. Robert T. Paine and another are the grantors, and the price named in the deeds is $67,820. A description of the property appeared in these columns some time ago.

ROXBURY—DORCHESTER.
Through the office of W. H. Jenkins the sale has just been closed of a three-family brick house at 65 Sawyer street, Roxbury, from David Hummelfeld to W. N. Ward, the purchaser buying for investment. The rating is $3700. There are 993 square feet of land.

A large sale in Dorchester just made involves three frame houses and 5392 feet of land numbered 36 and 38 Blue Hill avenue and 1 and 3 Hunkins street, being a corner estate. Of a total assessed valuation of $14,500, the land carries a rating of $5900. Title passes from Louis Berenson to Mark Abrams.

NEWTON-SOMERVILLE.
Alford Brothers have sold for William H. Lincoln, for the erection of a house and garage, 3½ acres of land on the cert? Most likely because the beauty of the old quartet writer's music lies in its formality, of which Mr. Betti and his associates sense the meaning as do no other artists who play for us; while the interest of the French musician's work lies in its protest against form.

That plaintive song of Melisande in the first movement of the Debussy quartet and that rebellious dance rhythm in the second movement are brilliant ideas in an inappropriate setting.

Where they are placed, they succeed only in denying the force of the allegro and minuet principles of the old quartet form; in another situation they could work to great constructive ends. Has not the theme of the first movement done so? Have we not seen Melisande let her hair fall while she improvised a melody of the same intent as that one?

There is richer blending of tone in the four Flonzaley instruments this year than formerly, without the slightest loss of that alertness, vigor, cheerfulness of phrase that characterized earlier performances in Boston.

Program of the first Flonzaley Thursday evening concert in Chickering hall: Mozart, quartet, G major, (Koch 387); Debussy, quartet, G minor, Op. 10; Haydn, quartet, F major, Op. 3, No. 5.

Sometimes the person of average concert enthusiasm asks himself, "What is there in the season's opportunities that I ought not to miss?" If he is at all sensitive to the more delicate emotional stirrings of music, if he can be aroused by anything less impressive than a modern opera, a Strauss symphony or a recital performance by one of the famous sopranos, if he is in the least degree susceptible to the appeal of chamber music, he would make no mistake in entrusting his artistic welfare for one evening during the winter to the Flonzaley quartet.

He had better choose a night when the program is concerned chiefly with the eighteenth century compositions; he would do well not to expect unusual interpretation from anything written after Beethoven's time nor from anything written by Beethoven after his early period. But there will be little chance for disappointment in respect to the kind of music played, for the Flonzaley men know where their talent is most effective. Do they try modern compositions? We know what would be said about their artistic courage if they did not.

Why does Debussy contrast so pitifully with Mozart, when both these composers are played at a Flonzaley con-western side of Dudley road, near Boylston street, Newton Center.

The same brokers have sold property at 123 Langley road, Newton Center, for J. F. Robbas, to F. M. Stuart, consisting of a house and 4308 feet of land, all assessed on $5000, of which $1000 is on the land.

Benjamin P. Ellis, Devonshire building, has sold for Eugene N. Hartshorn et al. the property at the junction of Medford and Sycamore streets, Somerville, consisting of four two-family houses, 96 to 106 on Sycamore street, and a lot of land containing 17,500 square feet. The property is assessed for $27,500. The purchaser is Isaac Heller. This property is situated near Tufts College and is in one of the best sections of Somerville.

SOCIALISM TALK BY DR. C. W. ELIOT

MILWAUKEE—Collective action, operating through the national government, is necessary to solve the problems of monopoly which face the United States, declared Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University at a luncheon given by the City Club there Thursday.

Dr. Eliot said he had visited a number of the city officials and was much impressed with the administration's "vigor, earnestness and high purposes."

"You have here in Milwaukee a fine example of collectivism," he said. "The distribution of property in this country is so vast that socialism, the real doctrine, can never get anywhere when it is known."

Dr. Eliot visited two high schools, speaking at both, then went to Milwaukee Downer college, a girls' college. He spoke before the associate women's clubs at the Athenaeum, and gave an evening address at the Pabst theatre.

TWO CONGRESS STREET FIRES

Fire at 144-148 Congress street last night caused a loss of about $15,000. The building is a five-story structure with a blind attic.

According to the firemen, it started on the fifth floor, which is occupied by the Bates & Guild company, publishers, and made its way up through the attic, occupied by Charles K. Cummings, Philip P. Howard and Walter P. Henderson, architects.

Fire in the six-story brick building 205-207 Congress street, starting in the workshop of M. F. Sheahan today, caused $1000 damage on the fourth floor. C. H. Simonds & Co., printers, sustained slight damage by water.

HOUSEHOLD NEEDS
There Are Several in New York City, But This Is the First Venture in Boston

THE ALDRICH-CLISBEE CO. have a large Chocolate Factory on Portland street. They have just installed a Distributing Counter, where their LUTHER'S CHOCOLATES can be bought direct from their shipping rooms. Orders can be left in the morning and called for in the afternoon, or packed "while you wait." Also, orders can be telephoned and free delivery will be made to any part of the city. Their method regarding telephone orders is to deliver all orders within the hour.

This new enterprise will be greatly appreciated by people traveling for on Portland street to and from the North Station, also by Boston ladies who desire a box of delicious Chocolates delivered at their homes.

LUTHER'S CHOCOLATES are sold at 40c., 50c., 60c., 80c. and $1 per pound, and may be found in all principal Candy Shops and Grocers in New England, also in the South and West.

THE ALDRICH-CLISBEE CO. factory extends from No. 21 to No. 25 Portland street, but the distributing department is at No. 21 Portland street. This will reach their Distributing Counter, where orders can be given for one or more pounds.

SOCIALISM TALK BY DR. C. W. ELIOT

MILWAUKEE—Collective action, operating through the national government, is necessary to solve the problems of monopoly which face the United States, declared Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University at a luncheon given by the City Club there Thursday.

Dr. Eliot said he had visited a number of the city officials and was much impressed with the administration's "vigor, earnestness and high purposes."

"You have here in Milwaukee a fine example of collectivism," he said. "The distribution of property in this country is so vast that socialism, the real doctrine, can never get anywhere when it is known."

Dr. Eliot visited two high schools, speaking at both, then went to Milwaukee Downer college, a girls' college. He spoke before the associate women's clubs at the Athenaeum, and gave an evening address at the Pabst theatre.

TWO CONGRESS STREET FIRES

Fire at 144-148 Congress street last night caused a loss of about $15,000. The building is a five-story structure with a blind attic.

According to the firemen, it started on the fifth floor, which is occupied by the Bates & Guild company, publishers, and made its way up through the attic, occupied by Charles K. Cummings, Philip P. Howard and Walter P. Henderson, architects.

ELECTRIC BONDS GUARANTEED.

LONDON, Ont.—The city council at a recent meeting accepted the resignation of Consulting Engineer Graydon and Publicity Agent Carruthers, and practically decided to guarantee the bonds of the North Midland Electric Company.

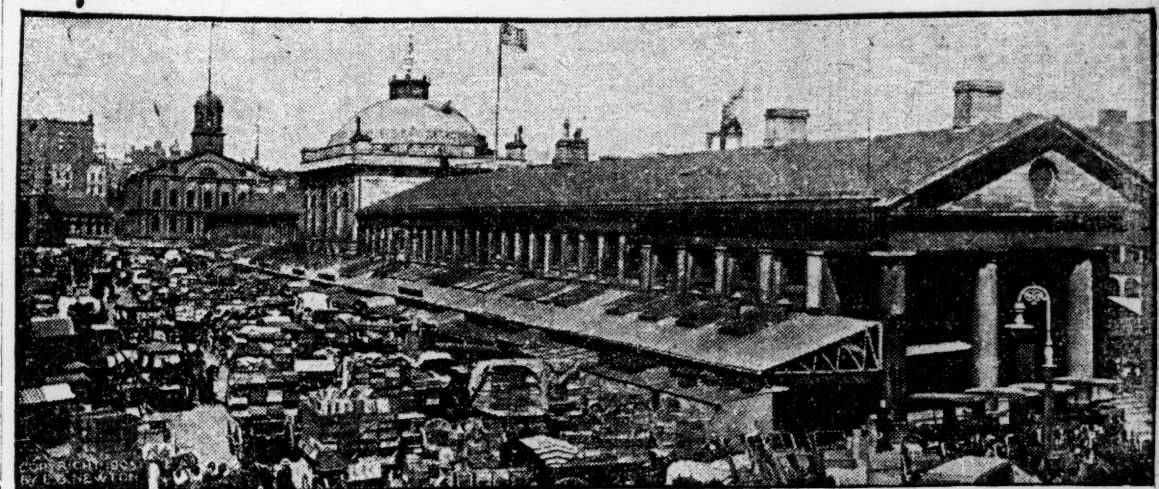

MUSIC COLLEGES AFFILIATE.

SHIPPERS VICTORS IN B. & M. CONTEST

WASHINGTON—Insurance that did not insure was remedied by the interstate commerce commission in a decision yesterday of the case of Lyman, Partridge & Co. and other shippers against the Boston & Maine railroad and other carriers of shipments from eastern points to Chicago, Duluth, St. Paul and other western destinations.

The lake and rail freight rates, first class, were advanced 3 cents per 100 pounds on shipments from Atlantic seaboard territory to western points in 1907. An effort was made by the shippers to obtain a restoration of the former lower rates.

The carriers agreed to furnish marine insurance for the shipments. It finally was disclosed that the insurance furnished did not afford adequate protection to the shippers and Lyman, Partridge & Co. took out their own insurance.

By the decision the commission awards reparation to the complainants, "because of unreasonable rate advances to cover marine insurance protection, which was never given."

NEWPORT TALKS WITH PANAMA.

NEWPORT, R. I.—For nearly 20 minutes Tuesday night the operator at the naval wireless station here talked with the government operator at Colon, Panama, a distance of 1981 miles. Each letter was distinctly heard at both ends, and the checking up messages were perfect.

News of the World Told by Cable and Correspondence

ANTI-PARTITION DEMONSTRATION IS COMPLETE FIASCO

(Special to The Monitor.)
CALCUTTA—Reference was recently made in these columns to the proclamation of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal on the subject of the proposed anti-partition demonstration. Since then the actual demonstration has taken place, and it is impossible to regard it other than as a complete fiasco. The police estimated the attendance at 3000, a mere handful out of a city of about 1,000,000 inhabitants. The fact is that the public are heartily weary of the whole affair, and the native papers are freely expressing the opinion that the continuance of the agitation is not only useless but positively mischievous. The editor of the Indian Mirror, after laying stress on the fact that the reversal of the partition is no longer a question of practical politics, proceeds: "From all that we can see, the vast majority of people in both Bengals take the same view. The signs of the times happily indicate that the revision in public feeling against artificial agitations is deepening day by day. People have begun to lose faith in the wisdom and efficacy of agitation which can only be kept up with the aid of immature adherents."

PREMIERS CONFER ON REMODELING CANADA COMMONS

OTTAWA, Ont.—A colonial conference at which the basis of representation of the maritime provinces in the Canadian Parliament will be considered with a view to effecting important changes will be held here today.

It will be attended by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Dominion premier; Sir James Whitney, premier of Ontario; Premier Scott of Saskatchewan; Premier Hazen of New Brunswick and Premier Hassard of Prince Edward Island.

A plan will be discussed for fixing the minimum basis of representation in the Dominion Parliament from the provinces named. At present Quebec is the only province whose representation in the Dominion is absolutely fixed.

It is entitled to 65 representatives in the Dominion Parliament, and no matter what the increase of population in the country, representation of the other provinces is fixed on the basis of Quebec's representation.

This can only be changed by amendment of the British North America act by the imperial Parliament. It is proposed to memorialize the imperial Parliament with this object in view.

SEND DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

(Special to The Monitor.)
AMSTERDAM—The Woman Suffrage Organization of the Netherlands has chosen 12 delegates to attend the international woman suffrage congress to be held at Stockholm, Sweden, June 12 to 19, 1911. It is rather a surprise that in this country where above all others women are domestic and kept so well under the thumb of their husbands, such an organization should exist, to say nothing of 12 women bold enough to pronounce their views on the subject to the extent of being sent to such a convention.

SURVEY BEGINS FOR ILOILO'S MUNICIPAL WATER SYSTEM

May Secure Supply From the Falls of Igibaras—Sugar Crop of Philippines Largest for Many Years—Much Activity in Building Line.

(Special to The Monitor.)
ILOILO, Panay Island, P. I.—Surveying has begun for a water supply for the city of Iloilo, which until the present time has managed to get along with its primitive arrangements that date back to the early Spanish times. The prosperous householders depend on wells and cisterns on their own property, while the poorer class of inhabitants secure their daily supply from such streams and pools as are available. Every Spaniard built frame house—known as a "casa grande"—has a cistern built into it to catch the run-off from the sloping roofs, while the top of this cistern, usually tiled, constitutes what is known as the azotea, better known in American parlance as the roof garden, on which the numbers of the family were wont to lounge of an evening during the dry season. This cistern is calculated to hold enough water, accumulated during the rains, to suffice for the needs of the household during the dry months which usually include at least part of December and all of the following months up to June and usually part of that. If the supply proves inadequate the family is obliged to fall back upon what public sources there are, or else purchase water.

In some seasons the price of potable water proves too high for householders to contemplate with equanimity. Frequently the military authorities here in

WONDERFUL BIRDS ARE ON DISPLAY AT ANNUAL LONDON SHOW

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—There was a more than usually wonderful show of birds at the annual cage bird show at the horticultural show. Besides innumerable canaries there were many specimens of English birds: Chaffinches, goldfinches, linnets, jays, redpolls, siskins, magpies, larks, thrushes, starlings, blackbirds, and even nightingales, though the latter, unfortunately, have not yet been induced to sing. The birds are valued at more than £100,000.

There were, besides, a group of gorgeous foreign birds, including the greater bird of paradise and the finest of humming birds hardly any bigger than bumble bees. Among these the purple sunbird, valued at £100 and weighing a fraction of an ounce, has been brought from South Africa with the greatest difficulty and expense. Unfortunately, however, the color which gives him his name refused to glow and, in spite of his journey, he only succeeded in obtaining a "commendation." The blue sugar bird, valued at only £5, was in perfect condition and stood for a living example of Maeterlinck's bird of happiness.

Among the curious examples were to be seen a black bullfinch, a yellow sparrow and several albinos, while of the canaries, perhaps the most welcome of all were the "rollers," whose wonderful crescendos and diminuendos are the envy of every human vocalist.

CHIEF LEWANIKA ASKS REASONS FOR AMALGAMATION

(Special to The Monitor.)
LIVINGSTONE—Lewanika, who was at Livingstone on the occasion of the visit of the royal party, is having the question of the proposed amalgamation of north-east and north-west Rhodesia explained to him in detail, and the consent of Lewanika as paramount chief of Barotseland will be obtained before he returns to his capital. Lewanika is strongly opposed to the amalgamation of the whole Barotseland in the South African Union, and in order that the situation might be made perfectly clear to him it had been arranged that he should visit Lord Gladstone at Capetown, and go thoroughly into the question. It has been found, however, possible to explain the whole situation here, although it is fully expected that Lewanika will demand assurances to the effect that the step, to which he is strongly opposed, will not be taken.

RAILWAY TO BUILD EXPENSIVE HOTEL

(Special to The Monitor.)
EDMONTON, Alb.—It is reported that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company has purchased a valuable block of city property for about $250,000, upon which it is proposed to build a $1,000,000 hotel to be operated by the company. The site overlooks the Saskatchewan valley, and is said to be one of the finest for the purpose in the West.

BY-ELECTION IN ST. JOHN.
ST. JOHN, Que.—The by-election in the county of St. John to fill the vacancy of the late Gabriel Marchand will be held Dec. 20, with nominations on the 22d.

BRITISH COLUMBIA GOVERNMENT WILL SUPERVISE 'TRAMS'

(Special to The Monitor.)
VICTORIA, B. C.—The provincial executive is bringing into early operation the provisions for government supervision and inspection of all tramways in the province, and is issuing manuals of the rules to govern all interurban and urban lines. The new rules will come into force with the new year, when the government, through expert inspectors, will proceed to check up the various lines, and determine whether their plants, rolling stock, wiring, system of operation, etc., are in condition to provide adequately for the public safety, and to compel immediate changes where these fall below the required standard. The regulations also provide for an official examination of motormen, conductors, and other grades of employees with respect to their duties and their knowledge of government rules, and no employees will be permitted to engage in the company's service until qualified by the examiners. The design of these regulations is to minimize the probability of accidents as well as to provide for more efficient service.

REVIVING OLD STYLES IN FURNISHINGS

England again adopting seventeenth century ways.

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—A decided change is being seen in the decoration of the home in England, and Jacobean styles are replacing those of a later date. In conversation with an expert the reason given for this was that a Louis XVI. room is difficult to live up to, and has none of the simple, solid homeliness and comfort of the seventeenth century. Another reason against the French styles is that they make a house look like a hotel, as most hotels are fitted with reproductions of French furniture and hangings.

To any one interested in the Jacobean period a stroll through the furniture section of the South Kensington museum is at the same time most interesting and instructive, as there are many examples of paneling and furniture. They reveal the fact that, although the execution was not equal to them, the designs were both simple and good.

The chairs were either high and narrow-backed with cane seats, or were square and square and had velvet cushions fringed at the edges. Seats covered with velvet much fringed and banded with gold were also used, with heavily tasseled cushions on them. The paneled walls of the period are being asked for more and more, and the ceilings modeled in plaster like those of that time are also revived. The windows were latticed and set in stone mullions. Jacobean hangings are also to be seen in the museum. They were made of a mixture of cotton and linen embroidered

KENTISH MEN PAY TRIBUTE TO JOHN HENNIKER-HEATON

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—John Henniker Heaton, M. P., was the guest of the evening at the annual dinner held by the Association of Kentish Men and Men of Kent, in recognition of his services to the empire and to the cause of postal communication. Sir William Hall-Jones, who presided, said that those in the distant parts of the empire realized most keenly the work of the guest of the evening. Forty of Mr. Henniker Heaton's proposals had already been adopted; he had 62 more, and when these were passed he would be satisfied.

Herbert Samuel, the postmaster-general, said that for his own part he would not believe that their guest had discontinued his work in postal reform until he saw incontrovertible evidence of the fact. Henniker Heaton had performed a great public service in keeping on the alert the individual who was the head of a great public department of state, and his efforts had even had some effect on the minds of those who controlled his majesty's treasury.

The chief of the measures connected with his name was imperial penny postage, which had strengthened and enlarged the means of communication with the various parts of our widely scattered empire, and tended to promote its lasting unity. Mr. Samuel remarked that many of the reforms he had recently announced were part of the 62 Henniker Heaton had submitted to him. In his opinion, the most important of these was the reform dealing with the imperial cablegrams, and no effort on his part would be left unmade to carry out this great reform.

G. B. Bayley referred to Mr. Henniker Heaton as the most persistent postal reformer of our time.

Lord Stratford said that 70 years ago, when he first went to Canada, one could not get a letter under four shillings, and eight shillings was charged for a double letter. It was by the persistent efforts of Mr. Henniker Heaton that we were able to send letters for one penny between the mother country and the outlying portions of the empire.

Mr. Henniker Heaton said that for 26 years he had taken part in the public life of this country, and he knew well that the time had arrived for him to give way to the younger and able men. He had had a long innings, and he was carrying out his last wish with over 100 runs—his meant postal reforms—to his credit. He was bound to admit that his relations with the postmaster-general had been those of the proverbial candid friend, but in every case their leaving the postoffice had been the occasion of the kindest letters to himself. He tendered them his heartfelt thanks and said farewell.

WORKED FLINTS OF PREHISTORIC AGE ARE FOUND
(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—A series of worked flints have been recently discovered in the Ipswich district, in circumstances that point to their being the oldest works of man which this country has yet produced. The flints are colored deep brown or cream with a fine polish; they are well chipped, and some of them show scratches that may be glacial striae imparted to the flints when they formed part of the gravel at the base of a glacier. Several of these flints were exhibited at the conversation of the Geologists Association, held at the library of University college, Gower street, and W. Whitaker, F. R. S., stated that the flints were undoubtedly of what is technically known as pre-glacial age, that is, long before the glacial age.

BRITISH COTTON TRADESMEN PROTEST JAPANESE TARIFF

File Objections With Sir Edward Grey, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, and Are Informed That Negotiations With Mikado Are Now Proceeding.

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—An important deputation representing the cotton and woolen trades visited the foreign office and laid before Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, and Sydney Buxton, president of the Board of Trade, their objections to the new customs tariff proposed by the Japanese government. The deputation included representatives of 18 Chambers of Commerce. There were also deputies of the Master Cotton Spinners Federation and the North and Northeast Lancashire Spinners and Manufacturers Association.

At the outset Sir Edward Grey said that negotiations with Japan were now proceeding, and therefore that it would be impossible to give information without prejudicing what they hoped might be a favorable result. Several members of the deputation addressed Sir Edward Grey and said that the proposed increases in the Japanese tariff were so heavy that they must curtail and in many cases destroy the British textile trade with Japan. The increases of tariff which Japan proposed would hit this country more than any other because we were the chief exporters of cotton and other textile goods to Japan. Japan could not argue that she was unable to compete with British textiles under her present tariff, seeing that she had already driven our common or coarse counts out of her market and had made a great impression on the demand for our fine counts. Such excessive charges would destroy the trade and would tend to affect the amicable relations at present existing between this country and Japan.

Sir Edward Grey replied that the Japanese government had shown every desire to have the British case put fully before them with regard to the practical effect of the tariff on articles in which we were specially interested, and they displayed perfect readiness to discuss any arrangement by which damage to British trade might be obviated or diminished.

Mr. Sydney Buxton said that our trade with Japan was considerably greater than that of any other nation, therefore the new Japanese tariff affected us more than anybody else. He was glad to think that the negotiations on the subject were taking a favorable turn.

It is understood that the Japanese government will send a special commissioner to England to furnish explanations which it is said will dissipate the objections to the new rates urged by British exporters.

CHINA PLANS TRUNK LINES OF RAILROADS THROUGHOUT EMPIRE

PEKING—China is pushing forward plans for a comprehensive system of trunk lines and local railroads. Tang Shaoyi, president of the board of communication, hopes for a great advance in the next two or three years.

Leaving out of consideration the projected Manchurian railroads, which, being destined entirely for strategic purposes, will be more or less controlled by Japan, many definite projects in other portions of the empire show real progress.

Work is going ahead on the Chang-shu extension of the Peking-Kalgan line. This railway, leading from the capital to Kalgan, on the edge of inner Mongolia, was constructed wholly by Chinese, without any foreign assistance or advice. The credit for it belongs to Jemei Tienyou, who is a graduate of Sheffield scientific school, Yale University, and is called "the father of Chinese railways."

Fifty miles of the line beyond Kalgan will be in operation in 1912. This extension will terminate at Tatungfu, in Shansi, where it will connect with a north and south line that will bisect Shansi. A further extension north into Mongolia is planned.

From Tatungfu, 180 miles from Kalgan, will be built a north and south line, 450 miles, to Puchow, in the southwest corner of Shansi. It will be connected with the projected east and west trunk line at Tungkuang, at the bend of the Yellow river. This connection would require only the short link between Puchow and Tungkuang.

The west to east line, which will pass through Tungkuang, will be as great a trunk line as the north and south line, being even greater, for some day it will be carried to Hui, 1250 miles to the west.

The project calls for a line from Lanchow, the capital of Kansu province, east to Haichow. One section is in operation, and upon the other two sections construction work is now being done. The total length is about 1600 miles.

UNVEIL STATUE OF KING HUMBERT

FISHGUARD MADE PORT OF CALL FOR SHIPS ON WAY OUT

(Special to The Monitor.)
LONDON—Fishguard, the rising Welsh port of the Great Western railway, has, for the first time, been made a port of call for vessels leaving England. The Blue Funnel liner Aeneas, which recently inaugurated a new direct monthly service between Glasgow and Australia, called at Fishguard and collected passengers from the special boat train which left Paddington at 11:28 a. m., reaching Fishguard at 4:30 p. m. This train connected at Cardiff with expresses from several parts of the country. The Great Western Railway Company's tender was alongside the arrival platform when the train reached Fishguard, and the passengers embarked with the utmost rapidity, so that the Aeneas left half an hour later. By this arrangement passengers from London save a day and a half, as, without the call at Fishguard, they would have had to journey all the way up to Glasgow by rail, and down again by the Irish sea.

CANADIAN TOWNS PROTEST CLOSING THE RIDEAU CANAL

OTTAWA, Ont.—Representatives met here yesterday from every city and township between Ottawa and Kingston, including these two cities, to protest against the closing of the Rideau canal. The Canadian Pacific railway has made application for the closing of a portion of the canal which flows through Ottawa and into the Ottawa river and for a grant of the canal bed upon which to lay its tracks.

The main line of the road crosses the Ottawa river twice in order to get from one of its stations to the other. The proposed scheme contemplates a tunnel passing under the city postoffice 50 feet below grade and connecting the central station with the union station, thus cutting off the present detour through the city of Hull.

The Rideau canal was constructed nearly 60 years ago by the imperial government, partly for military purposes and partly to establish a commercial line of waterways between Kingston and Montreal.

The deputations not only protested against abandoning the canal but asked to have it improved. D. P. Graham, minister of railways and canals, gave an encouraging reply.

If the Canadian Pacific railway plan is carried through it will be conditional upon a new outlet to the Ottawa river being constructed, which will virtually keep the Rideau canal intact.

President Taft—Colonel Roosevelt

It is announced that Colonel Roosevelt will enter upon a two months' speaking tour about the first of March. His plans at present are to visit practically every state in the Union outside of New England. Why New England is to be passed over is not explained. It is quite probable, however, that the ex-President will give most of his time to the South, in which quarter he has always been well received. There will be but one diversion from what might be called the popular phase of his tour. Beginning with March 23 he is under engagement to deliver six lectures before the University of California.

It is unnecessary to say considerable public interest will attach to this undertaking. There is general satisfaction over the conservative tone of President Taft's message. From the manner in which his references to future trust legislation have been commented upon, it is clear that concern as to what course he should advise in this respect has been very keen among business people and among the masses whose interests are so closely bound up with commercial tranquillity and prosperity.

President Taft's attitude toward that character of legislation whereof the tendency is to disturb industrial conditions appeals to the manufacturers, the merchants and the bankers of the country and to the great army of the employed, not only because it will serve to strengthen still further the growing confidence in commercial circles, but because, in their belief, it will have a good moral effect upon the party that is about to take up the reins of government.

What is to be the burden or the theme or tone of Theodore Roosevelt's speeches in his proposed tour cannot very well be guessed. The country has had no utterance from him since the recent elections. His present point of view is unknown. It may be revealed at the New Haven banquet next Tuesday evening. It is not going too far, however, to say that the country will hope that he may see his way to departing somewhat from his former method of discussion. The public is well informed now as to existing abuses; they are admitted. What it is looking for is a calm and effective remedial process. President Taft seems to have grasped the situation. Colonel Roosevelt will be listened to more attentively and exercise a far greater influence if it shall appear that he has grasped it also.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., reports great prosperity during the last year as a result of the general application of the power of the waterfall to industrial development. This news will be received with more satisfaction when it is added that the beauty of the falls is not impaired.

Alfonso the Peacemaker

THAT the young King of Spain is gradually developing traits such as should characterize a modern ruler is the conclusion reached from what has occurred within his domain during the past year. Alfonso XIII. gives further evidence of his desire for fairness through his plan to visit Morocco early next month. Considering that the African complication is of recent date, although the campaign against the Riff tribesmen was the outcome of disputes that had lasted for years, it is plain that the Spanish monarch wishes to be a pacificator. Reports from Melilla to the effect that the tribesmen are preparing to give the King and his suite an enthusiastic welcome are, therefore, of the highest importance and indicate that the policy of Prime Minister Canalejas is bearing fruit.

It is apparent from the convention recently signed by Spain and Morocco that the African expedition of the Spanish forces had in view nothing else than the establishment of peace in a territory greatly disturbed by irresponsible tribesmen. That this convention appeals to Morocco and even to many of the warlike tribes that spread dissatisfaction through northwest Africa is made plain by the enthusiasm with which the visit of King Alfonso is acclaimed. There may be some display in this Moroccan tour. Advices from Madrid are to the effect that the King is to be accompanied by a large retinue, including, besides the prime minister, commissions from the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, together with a number of officers headed by General Aznar, minister of war. There are also to be a number of newspaper correspondents to give the proper publicity to this peaceful invasion of Africa.

Moral support given by France and Great Britain naturally had much to do with the drawing up of the Moroccan convention. Of the four leading points covering the agreement, the clause which says that the evacuation of Spanish troops will take place as soon as the police force is efficient enough to maintain order evidences that Spain went into the Riff country and the districts of Alhucemas and Penon only because it was considered a necessity. Local Moroccans will be appointed as officials, however, while the native police are to be instructed by Spanish officers.

A second important point agreed on is that the Sultan of Morocco is not to fortify any positions around Ceuta, and Spain reserves to itself the privilege of nominating the officer in charge of the frontier line. The indemnity that Morocco is to pay to Spain will be in seventy-five annual instalments, and, with the military expenses thus secured, it is the belief that the Riff disturbance will find the Spanish people as a whole in a more conciliatory mood.

For there is little doubt that the African expedition did not meet with the approval of the country. The elements opposed to the monarchy took advantage of their opportunity, and impressed the masses with the argument that the overseas campaign was more than useless. With its $13,000,000 war indemnity, and Morocco ceding to Spain additional territory, the Canalejas administration has now something tangible to show the country. There is already noticeable a much better feeling toward the man who has been able to put into effect plans that ran counter to popular approval, and in strengthening his own hand he has given a significant support to the King and royal rule.

It seems that the opportunities of King Alfonso are now such that he can demonstrate to a Latin people that it may get from a constitutional-monarchical government something not much less satisfactory than republicanism has to offer. It will, of course, devolve on him to allow for a liberalism that brooks no interference. He will not have far to go to learn what has come to others less anxious to abide by the popular expression. The King of Spain appears to be in sympathy with the masses, and any ruler who can make himself one with his people may well be able to find his happiness among them.

It costs more than three quarters of a billion of dollars a year to run this country, even when it is run economically; but it is worth all it costs.

UNITED STATES CONSUL INGRAM, stationed at Birmingham, Eng., has transmitted to the state department an interesting report on the operations of municipal tramways in the United Kingdom. At the present time the investment of public moneys in those enterprises amounts to $229,522,845. During the year ending March 31, last, this investment paid interest amounting to $9,940,778 and placed $691,355 in a sinking fund. While privately owned tramway companies were able to put aside only 1.05 per cent of their capital stock for depreciation, etc., the publicly owned lines put by 3½ per cent of their capital for the same purpose. The municipal concerns during the year paid out $1,796,719 in local taxes, and $1,363,715 toward the relief of local tax rates in various communities; all this, it should be remembered, while keeping the fare down to the minimum. Workingmen's tickets are good before 8 o'clock in the morning at much below the ordinary rate.

The case of Bradford may be cited as typical. That city is the center of a great trolley system. The street cars there contributed to the city treasury from their earnings between Jan. 1, 1907, and March 31, 1910, $472,050. The city owns fifty-six miles of tramway traversing thirty-four miles of streets. The total capitalization of the municipal capital expenditure on tramways amounts to $5,070,893, and for the year ending on March 31, last, they contributed to the city treasury for the relief of taxation $160,594, or about 3.01 per cent of the investment.

This is an excellent showing. The question remaining to be answered, however, is whether results fully as satisfying could not be obtained under private ownership properly handled. For the year ending Jan. 31, 1909, one of the great street railway corporations of Chicago paid over to the municipality $864,290, and another $427,572. In addition, the corporations under their franchises are bound to contribute $5,000,000 toward the construction of a subway system.

The municipally operated traction line is not always well conducted. This fact has been discoverable in cities which, generally speaking, are admirably governed. It still remains to be determined whether municipally owned and operated street railways are more desirable than privately operated lines under franchises which compel fair compensation and regulations which compel good service.

RUNNING time between New York and Philadelphia is being rapidly reduced, but it is impossible to say yet whether this is in the interest of both cities alike.

Rational Conservation

COMMISSIONER RING of Maine is quoted as saying that the forests of that state rightly handled will produce 637,000,000 feet of spruce a year continuously. It is estimated by Maine lumbermen that there are standing in the woods of the state today 21,239,000,000 feet of spruce timber. In addition there are millions of feet of pine and cedar. The point, however, is that Maine is a great spruce-growing state, and this point is all the more interesting in view of an enlightening communication from E. D. Moffet of Hartford City, Ind., to the editor of the Indianapolis Star.

Mr. Moffet's communication is an exceedingly interesting one, and it is so, evidently, because he knows exactly what he is talking about, as, for instance, when he says that the farmers of Indiana will find it far more to their advantage to plant fruit trees than trees for lumber production in that state. Trees for future lumber supply, it appears, practically cease to grow in Indiana after they have become ten-year-old saplings. The man who is today engaged in the work of trying to make others believe that forests of sizable trees can be grown anywhere does not, he says, have a right conception of the situation. The reasons for the decadence of tree growth in Indiana as he presents them are natural and reasonable. In brief, there is no more reason why trees of great size may be grown everywhere than that corn or rice may be grown everywhere. Trees for lumbering will not grow in Indiana, but apple trees will thrive there; and the point Mr. Moffet raises is that true conservation is that which encourages efforts along practical and not merely theoretical lines.

Millions of acres of public lands are now withdrawn from settlement and included in the forest reserves that will probably never be covered with forests. On the other hand, spruce culture in the state of Maine is something, manifestly, to be encouraged with all necessary substantial support. It is a question whether we have not been moved in this forestry matter as much by sentiment as by judgment based on knowledge. The railroads are planting forests that give great promise, because forest-growing lands have been chosen for the plantations. Hemlock is not being planted on peach land or spruce on apple land. Nor are forests expected to grow where the soil and atmospheric conditions are not right. Very likely conservation in general will be carried on along more rational lines as mere sentiment and political feeling shall be removed from the treatment of the subject. It is necessary to successful conservation that we should know more than seems to be generally known at present with regard to the real resources and possibilities of the soil.

THE Hon. Champ Clark now says that when he is speaker he expects to walk to and from the Capitol. But this will be entirely unnecessary if he has carfare.

HUBERT LATHAM's plan to hunt with an aeroplane may tempt somebody to say that what he is really thinking of is a wild goose chase.

Down in Mexico it by no means follows that when a town is "taken" it stays taken.

Municipal Tramway Showing

The Navy Yard Question

THERE is opportunity such as seldom comes to a people, or to the chosen representatives of a people, for a display of patriotism in connection with the navy yard reform proposals and recommendations in Secretary Meyer's report. Wars are not necessary in order to test the devotion of citizens to country. There are innumerable ways in which the nation can be served, and well served, by its people in times of peace. Recently more than usual attention has been directed toward what is known as the "pork barrel" method of making appropriations for river and harbor and public building improvements. This method is admittedly dishonest. It results frequently in squandering the government's revenue. Representatives and senators have clung to it because they have been educated to believe that their districts must get something out of the national treasury annually, whether they are entitled to it or not. Their only rightful title to it lies in the establishment of the fact that the money sought is to be used to advance the general welfare. It is too often sought merely to bolster up the political position of an office holder or a party. The moral conscience of the country is being aroused against the "pork barrel" appropriation. Congressional districts and states, constituencies and individual voters can display loyalty to the national government by letting it be known that they do not want, and will not accept, unwarranted appropriations from Congress.

Similarly, with regard to the useless navy yards which Secretary Meyer would abolish. Doubtless they are regarded as an asset in some localities; doubtless their abolition would cause some hardship; doubtless it will be hard to forego the annual local distribution of government money for the maintenance of these establishments. But if they are useless, if their existence involves an unnecessary expense and, worse still, imperils the nation's safety, why should not honest and self-respecting communities voluntarily agree to their abolition?

It would mean some sacrifice—some sacrifice for the country's good—but is not this what patriotism always demands? Is it not what good citizenship requires?

Railroad and River Cooperation

IN HIS address of welcome to the delegates attending the seventh annual convention of the national rivers and harbors congress in Washington on Wednesday President Taft again laid stress upon a point which he had repeatedly brought forward, that cooperation between the railroads and the rivers is absolutely essential to the success of internal waterway transportation. There cannot be serious contention here. Regard for mutual interests at least, it would seem, should lead the advocates of waterway transportation development and the railroad men of the country to see that anything like a warfare of competition between them must result in serious injury to both. The railroads through the exercise of their powerful influence may succeed in staying for a time the progress of waterway transportation, but in the end they will be compelled to recognize it, and to meet it as an important factor in the industrial economy of the nation. Those waterway advocates who are moved by antagonism to the railroads principally, or even partially, must realize sooner or later that without the cooperation of the railroads waterway transportation will be grievously handicapped.

There must eventually be a rational division of business between the two systems. Bulky and slow freight that can as well be hauled through rivers, lakes and canals must be so diverted that the railroads may be free to handle business requiring greater expedition.

The rivers are natural highways. They have not been used in recent years for many reasons, of which the principal is that the necessity for their employment has been hidden by the general use of railroads. The movement to market of the country's vastly increasing products, at lower rates than the railroads seem to be able to offer, calls now for a resumption of river navigation. The river traffic must be built up, however; it cannot be created over night, and the railroads can promote or retard its growth as they shall elect by granting or withholding cooperation at waterway terminals.

It must strike the intelligent and impartial onlooker that President Taft hits the nail on the head when he says that railroad and river cooperation is the most important question before the convention now in session.

BENJAMIN IDE WHEELER's conclusion that the pan-American doctrine is "the new Monroe doctrine" evidently is based in part on events preceding and contingent upon this year's conference of the twenty western republics. There can be no doubt whatever that better understanding is promoted by these occasional meetings between the United States on the one hand, and Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Santo Domingo, Ecuador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Salvador, Uruguay and Venezuela on the other. And, withal, the smaller countries are growing into the realization of all that the momentous words incorporated in President Monroe's message to Congress on Dec. 2, 1823, meant to their material welfare. They regard the United States as a sort of big brother, and although twisting under that nation's scrutiny at times, they still value its friendly solicitude.

These twenty republics, speaking generally, have been building up their armaments in the last ten years to a degree which would make them collectively worthy of respect by any aggressive country. And, in the words of the University of California's esteemed president, "the American nations shall not be regulated by arbitrary power from without and in accordance with European policies and quarrels. We are united as one by a common geographical fate. . . . Under the old arrangement all America stood in the world's back yard. Today it stands midway between Europe and the goal of its desire, the old Orient. The opening of the Panama canal means that the two oceans which enclose us shall be made one."

The original Monroe doctrine has served a great purpose, and, if the pan-American doctrine of friendship and cooperation between the United States and the little republics to her south now unostentatiously takes precedence as a controlling influence on international comity and industrial advancement, there can be nothing but felicitations over such an outcome.

The New Monroe Doctrine
